

Fear, Suspicion Grip Havana; New Wave of Arrests Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana was described as a city of fear and suspicion today in a dispatch from the Cuban capital. A new wave of arrests there reached into almost every family. Suspects jammed into swollen jails. Living conditions were described as growing worse.

The government radio network said Prime Minister Fidel Castro, unseen in public for almost a week, was personally directing mop-up operations in the interior against the surviving rebel invaders who are trying to overthrow his pro-Communist regime.

A Havana television station Friday night prepared the people for big "Castro Day" victory celebrations with a five-hour live interview of prisoners the government claims it captured during the abortive invasion by Cuban exiles.

One prisoner was Jose Miro Torres, son of the top Cuban rebel leader Jose Miro Cardona. Miro Torres bit his lip and rocked in his chair as he admitted that his force was defeated and his operation ended in failure.

The rebel leader's son said on

Havana television that he had been well treated since his capture. All his comments were in the form of answers to his interrogators.

"Then it is not just to say that Cuban militiamen behave like human beasts?" Miro Torres was asked.

"Absolutely not," he replied before the cameras.

When asked by the panel of interviewers what he and his men expected to find when they landed, Miro Torres said:

"We thought the militia and the army would join us."

"That is what you were told. But what did you find?"

"They fought us very hard and defeated us."

"Then you were defeated?" Miro Torres was asked.

"Yes," he answered.

Miro Torres also responded "no" when asked if any appreciable number of invaders had escaped.

Jose Miro Cardona appealed from his New York headquarters to Pope John XXIII, asking the pontiff's intercession to halt firing squad executions of captured rebels. A Havana dispatch Friday said the number shot had reached 29 in three days.

Miro Cardona said in his cable to the Vatican that the Pope's voice, "exemplifying Christian charity, could save the lives of many idealistic men" by interceding through the International Red Cross.

Miro Cardona also messaged the presidents of 11 Latin American nations, asking them to "act promptly" to prevent more executions.

Some rebel sources in Miami said between 500 and 1,500 guerrillas were headed for Cuba for a new invasion assault. The anti-

Castro radio on Swan Island, off the Central American coast, said small landings had already been made but no other source confirmed this.

The rebel radio broadcast mysterious instructions to three battalions, two squadrons and an air group at 4 a.m. today. It told one battalion to advance and the two squadrons how far to proceed. It instructed the air group to cover a certain position by number. The signals were heard clearly at an Associated Press monitoring station in Miami.

President Kennedy was to meet today with former President Eisenhower at Camp David, Md.,

to discuss at lunch the recent events in Cuba. The two have not met since Kennedy took office.

AP Correspondent Ben Price reported from Cuba that an underground source there complained bitterly over what he saw as the reasons for the failure of last weekend's invasion attempt. The source said the rebels neglected to seize radio stations for rallying the masses and did not furnish themselves with proper aerial support.

The U.N. General Assembly adopted 59-13 a mild resolution asking all nations to take whatever peaceful steps they can to remove existing tension between the United States and Cuba.

The assembly killed a provision to assign a peacemaker role to Latin American nations, reversing the U.N. Political Committee.

Demonstrations for and against Castro continued in the rest of the world. Some Asian editorial comment backed Washington.

The latest and biggest pro-Castro rally was in Mexico City, where police used clubs, tear gas and fire hoses to disperse a mob of 10,000. Injuries were reported as minor. Police moved in as the crowd was about to burn an American flag and a 16-foot effigy of Kennedy hanging from a lamp post.

Five inspectors of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation also were reclassified as lieutenants or lieutenant-supervisors.

The changes are part of Gov. Rockefeller's plan to modernize the force and place more emphasis on combatting organized crime. In recent weeks, the entire top echelon has been changed. Many new appointees have been former FBI agents.

Bill Raising Jurors' Age to 75 Is Vetoed

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Jurors should not be older than judges, Gov. Rockefeller said today in announcing he had vetoed a bill that would have raised the maximum age for jurors from 70 to 75.

The bill was among dozens on which the governor acted as he neared the end of the annual 30-day bill-signing period.

Midnight Monday is the deadline for decisions on measures passed by the 1961 Legislature.

In vetoing the bill that would have raised maximum age of jurors, Rockefeller noted that judges had to retire at 70 "and this tends to set a pattern in New York with respect to service in the courts."

Sen. Dutton S. Peterson, R.-Odessa, a sponsor of the bill said when it was passed that persons in the 70-75 group comprised a good source of jurors, who sometimes were in short supply.

The governor took this action on other bills.

DeGaulle Sends Aides To Halt Algiers Coup

PARIS (AP)—Four retired French generals seized power in Algiers today and attempted to force President Charles de Gaulle to abandon plans for negotiations with the Algerian rebels.

De Gaulle reacted quickly, sending aides to Algeria to quash the coup.

The insurgent leaders were backed by tough paratroopers who brought down the French government in 1958 for the same reason—fear that Algeria might become independent from France.

Reaction Comes Quickly
Three years ago the unstable government of the Fourth French Republic proved a pushover. This time the right-wing rebels must contend with De Gaulle and his widespread support in France.

Reaction from Algerian rebel headquarters in Tunis also came quickly and introduced the factor of the Moslems' new confidence.

Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas, leader of the 6½-year-old rebellion against France, called on his followers in Algeria to help break the insurrection.

"You must organize yourselves to confront the provocations of the paratroopers," he said, in a radio broadcast, recalling the incidents of last December when Moslems poured into the streets to demonstrate their support for Algerian independence.

Communications Closed
Sent from Paris by De Gaulle were Algerian Affairs Minister Louis Joxe and Gen. Jean Olie.

They were ordered by to take over civilian and military command from Jean Morin and Gen. Gernand Gambiez, who were being held by the military insurgents.

It was not immediately clear how much of Algeria was under the control of the insurgents. Communications from Algiers to Paris opened briefly and then closed.

The insurgent leaders took over sentences on speeding charges in determining whether a person had been convicted of speeding three times within 18 months. The state revokes licenses of persons who have been convicted three times on speeding charges.

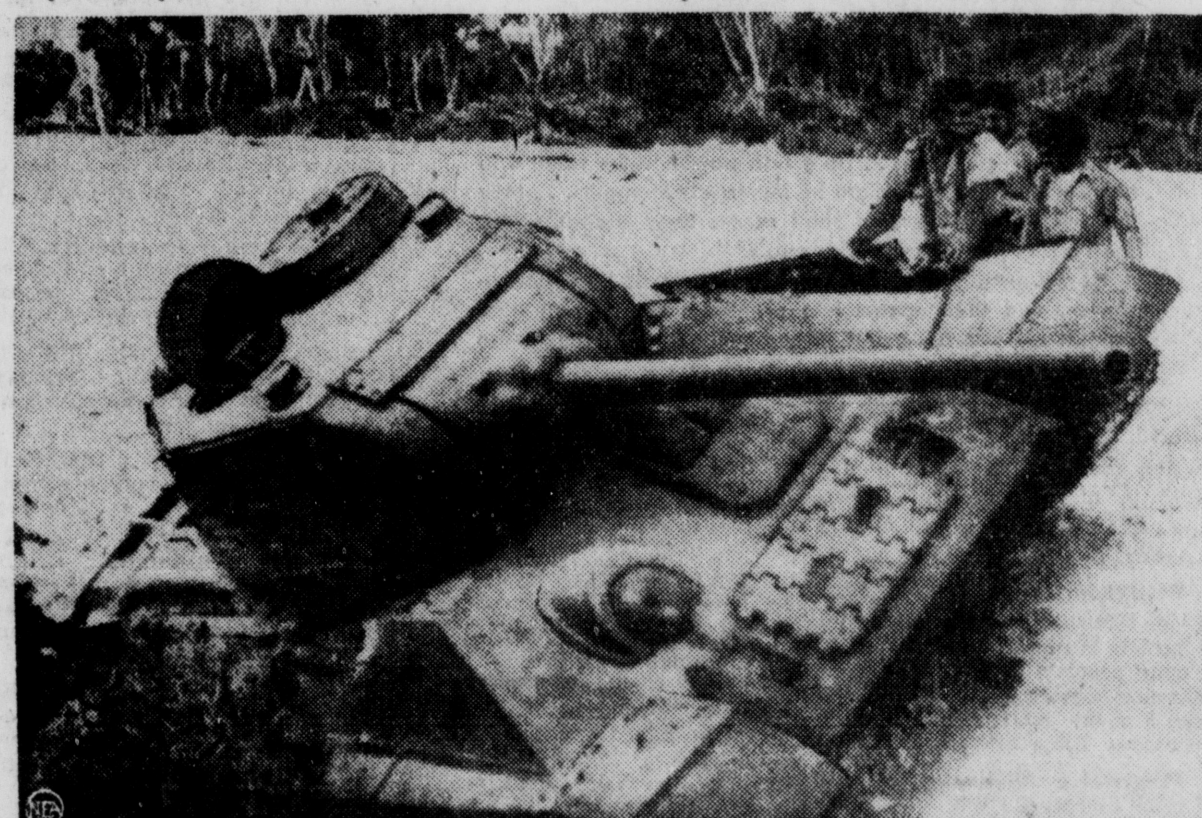

The bill, the governor said, would have seriously weakened a law designed to remove dangerous drivers from the highways.

LIQUOR—Signed a bill permitting resort hotels to add one bar, for a maximum total of three.

Vetoed a measure that would have barred the State Liquor Authority from acting in cases in which courts had cleared the license involved. The governor said the State Law Department had pointed out to him that courts sometimes dismissed cases because of technicalities and the dismissal did not necessarily mean the case had no merit.

INDIANS—Approved a measure authorizing the council of the Seneca Indians to lease tribal lands in the Allegany, Cattaraugus and Oil Springs reservations.

Teacher Is Cleared, to Resume Post

An Arlington Junior High School history teacher, who was acquitted of a morals offense with a schoolboy by a Dutchess County court trial jury on Thursday, has been reinstated and will receive adjusted pay since he was suspended 16 months ago.

Storm said if Deeb wants his former history department assignment back, he can have it because he has tenure. Storm referred to Deeb as an excellent teacher.

Deeb was suspended Dec. 21, 1959 after his arrest on a morals charge involving a teenage boy in one of his classes.

The grand jury indicted Deeb on 24 counts, but 22 counts were dismissed by County Judge John R. Schwartz and the trial jury acquitted the teacher of the other two counts.

Rebel Office Blames Soviets for Losses

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cuban revolutionary council says MIG aircraft and Soviet tanks were responsible for the losses suffered by its forces on Cuba's beaches—a reversal it refused to call a defeat.

"It is a setback," said council leader Jose Miro Cardona, who displayed tears at times during a news conference Friday.

He read in firm, solemn tones a prepared statement in which the council declared, "MIG aircraft and Soviet tanks have inflicted a grave reverse to Cuba's cause."

But he added "the majority of those who landed are actually fighting. It was one more of many landings that have taken place and will continue to take place."

"This dramatic episode of total war, unleashed against our people by the Soviet empire, necessarily was played out under disadvantageous conditions that impeded proper coordination between the forces inside the country and those that returned to the fatherland."

Miro Cardona repudiated "most emphatically the intervention carried out by the Soviet Union in Cuba through its agents, its tanks, its airplanes and its technicians."

Miro Cardona, whose son and those of two other council aides were among those taken captive by the forces of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, appealed for an end to executions on the island.

He said he had cabled Pope John XXIII, urging him to intercede through the International Red Cross to bring a halt to the Castro firing squads.

Similar appeals were sent to the United Nations and to the presidents of 11 South and Central American nations, he said.

The thick-set leader and his top aides dropped out of sight after last weekend's Cuban landings. Miro Cardona reappeared Wednesday in Washington for talks with President Kennedy.

It was speculated that Miro Cardona and some of the leaders may have been with the revolutionary forces right up to the time they landed in Cuba.

JFK, Ike to Meet Later on Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today appointed Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former Army chief of staff, to make a special survey of U. S. capabilities in the field of "nonconventional" warfare such as guerrilla activity.

Taylor immediately went on the job. He attended a meeting this morning of the National Security Council—one of the few sessions of that major defense group since Kennedy took office.

K Warns Kennedy

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told President Kennedy today the invasion of Cuba is "a crime which has re-voled the whole world."

"It has been established incontrovertibly that it was the United States that prepared the intervention, financed, armed and transported the mercenary bands which invaded Cuba," Khrushchev said in a message to President Kennedy, handed to E. L. Freers, U. S. charge d'affaires.

Khrushchev was replying to a communication several days ago from Kennedy.

As distributed by Tass, the Soviet news agency, the Khrushchev statement referred to a Kennedy statement that rockets that might be used against the United States could be stationed in Cuba, with the inference that this posed problems for the United States in relation to the whole Western hemisphere.

"Mr. President, you are following a very dangerous path," Khrushchev said. "Ponder that."

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said that "non-conventional" warfare in this case is not used in the usual sense of nuclear warfare but of tactical operations.

Salinger said Kennedy decided within the last few days that such a survey is necessary and asked Taylor Friday to conduct it.

The study clearly was inspired by events of the past week in Cuba.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Isaiah strengthens men today as he did 2700 years ago: "Hast thou not heard that the everlasting God... fainteth not, neither is weary... He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength... they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles." He inspires: "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

THE POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Isaiah strengthens men today as he did 2700 years ago: "Hast thou not heard that the everlasting God... fainteth not, neither is weary... He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength... they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles." He inspires: "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

Your Life And Mine

By
CLYDE PERBERT SNELL
THE FIVE WORDS

In the early pages of his recent book entitled, "Dr. Schweitzer of Lambarene," Norman Cousins tells about how his plans took shape to visit this jungle doctor. One main reason for the trip was to try to persuade the doctor to finish up some manuscripts upon which he has been working for nearly a quarter of a century; one on philosophy and history; the other on theology. Mr. Cousins had been apprised of the fact that this would not be a simple, easy mission to accomplish because of Schweitzer's conviction that meeting the pressing needs of people must take precedence over the writing of books.

One day Mrs. Clara Urquhart, who has been associated with Dr. Schweitzer in his work in Africa for many years, and who thus knew about the unfinished manuscripts as well as how he felt about things, called at Mr. Cousins office in New York. "You must not be discouraged," she said to him. "Later I was to discover," says Mr. Cousins, "that no five words were more characteristic of Clara Urquhart than 'you must not be discouraged.' She never understood the difficulty," he adds by way of evaluation, "but never made the mistake, either, of confusing the difficulty with the impossible."

Those five words often work their miracles in bolstering the human spirit. To have some folks around, as we all know, only adds weight to our discouragement. They say things that deplete our inner resources. Our determination to play the hero sags in their presence. We wish they had not come—or that they had been wise enough to keep silent. But there are other folks we meet on the great highway of life who know how to speak words of helpfulness. We are stronger because of their utterances. They help us to play the man even though we are encountering tremendous odds. When the going is hard, and the battle seems to be going against us, what a help it is to have some Clara Urquhart whisper in our ear and say: "You must not be discouraged."

The folks who have the wisdom never to confuse the difficulty with the impossible are priceless assets. In our kind of world most of the world while things that need to be done are fraught with all kinds of hazards. (The building of a peaceful world, for example.) One of the most important lessons we ever learn is never to abandon as impossible the projects that must be carried on by some one, if the world is to be saved from destruction. If memory serves me accurately it was Lincoln who said: "What is wrong cannot be permanent; what is right cannot be impossible."

One way God uses to keep humans at the tasks upon which hope depends is by seeing to it that there are a few persons scattered around in almost every community who have the insight to see that because a project is difficult does not necessarily mean that it is impossible; and who are always urging their fellow mortals on in the good work they are doing by those five little words that mean so much, saying: "You must not be discouraged." The great apostle, in effect, was employing those five words when he exhorted the Galatians: "If us not grow tired of doing good, for, unless we throw in our hands, the ultimate harvest is assured." (6:9—Philips translation)

Missionary Crusaders

Mission Program Slated on Sunday At Area Churches

A group of Nyack Missionary College students, The Missionary Crusaders, will be appearing at area churches Sunday to present a program on world missions.

They will be at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 131 Franklin Street, for the Sunday morning worship service, and at the Grace Community Church Lake Katrine Grange Hall, 6 p. m.

The Rev. Willard D. Crunkilton, pastor of the local Alliance Church, and the Rev. Scott E. Vining, pastor of Grace Community Church, have extended an invitation to the public to attend.

The services will be a missionary pageant depicting world missions. The 14 students are the children of foreign missionaries, and most of them were born in the mission field. A majority plan to return to the land of their birth and continue missionary activity. A number of them have lived more years in distant lands, than in North America.

Among the elements of missionary pageantry will be dialogues, missionary challenges and a brief address by the director, the Rev. Bradford Hess.

The Crusaders will be dressed in colorful native costumes peculiar to the land in which they were reared. Some of the features will be given in foreign languages and translated on the spot.

The Missionary Crusaders has just returned from an extensive tour throughout the south and have received most favorable comment.

The Rev. Mr. Hess, director of the group, comes with a background of pastoral work in which his emphasis was upon foreign missions.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, will celebrate a Solemn Pontifical Mass at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's Cathedral Sunday marking the start of a 10-day solicitation period for the 42nd annual fund appeal of New York Catholic Charities. Local Catholic churches will observe the day with special pulp announcements and sermons on charity. An illustrated folder, "Let Your Heart Dictate," outlining Catholic Charities' accomplishments in 1960, will be distributed at all Masses.

Later in the day the volunteer workers, organized in parish teams and carrying credentials, will start their rounds to enroll Catholic families in the annual appeal, stressing Cardinal Spellman's guide for generous giving: at least one day's wage or income.

Officers for the new fiscal year will be nominated. They will constitute the cabinet, and will consist of 6 including president and vice president, secretary, treasurer, chairman of the Week of United Prayer and chairman of the annual county-wide Sunday school convention, to be held each year in March. The Week of United Prayer is held the first full week of each year, to coincide with the National Week of Prayer.

His topics here will include a discussion on Principles of Counseling, Counseling with the Mentally Ill and Counseling about Sex Problems.

Dr. Narramore has designated a day late in June to be in Kingston, planning to devote the entire day to this seminar.

Investment Bankers' Role A Key One for Business

Q) "Just what are investment bankers, and what do they do?"

A) Investment bankers serve the long-term banking needs of corporations. They provide the organization through which a corporation can market its securities to the public in return for funds needed in business expansion.

In contrast are the commercial banks from which corporations borrow on a short-term basis—say, to meet a payroll or to finance a seasonal inventory.

When a corporation decides to sell publicly a sizable amount of its securities, an investment banking house will normally be called in to "underwrite" or conditionally guarantee the success of the issue. In larger issues, many houses will participate.

The investment banker's skill is vital in deciding the type of security to be issued, its price, and its timing. After the details are worked out, the investment banker in effect purchases the issue from the corporation, which receives its money in return.

Next comes the job of retailing the issue to the public. This may be done by the original underwriters. In many cases, a larger selling group will be formed as other dealers are asked to join in the sales effort. The issue is then sold to the public in accordance with federal and state security laws.

Q) "We are in our sixties and own shares of Aluminum, General Motors, and American. Should we hold or sell?"—B. W.

A) Aluminum producers still appear troubled by excess capacity, and this may take a while to work out. Alcoa shares have recovered some lost ground in the recent general market advance. Industry conditions should improve as the economy picks up, but action of the shares may be slow. I believe you would be better off if you switched this stock into Purex (OTC), a valuable merchandiser. Purex makes a wide line of household cleansers and toiletries and has had an unusually good record of earnings growth.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE PERLBERG SNELL
THE FIVE WORDS

In the early pages of his recent book entitled, "Dr. Schweitzer of Lambarene," Norman Cousins tells about how his plans took shape to visit this jungle doctor. One main reason for the trip was to try to persuade the doctor to finish up some manuscripts upon which he has been working for nearly a quarter of a century: one on philosophy and history; the other on theology. Mr. Cousins had been apprised of the fact that this would not be a simple, easy mission to accomplish because of Schweitzer's conviction that meeting the pressing needs of people must take precedence over the writing of books.

One day Mrs. Clara Urquhart, who has been associated with Dr. Schweitzer in his work in Africa for many years, and who thus knew about the unfinished manuscripts as well as how he felt about things, called at Mr. Cousins' office in New York. "You must not be discouraged," she said to him. "Later I was to discover," says Mr. Cousins, "that no five words were more characteristic of Clara Urquhart than 'you must not be discouraged.' She never understood the difficulty," he adds by way of evaluation, "but never made the mistake, either, of confusing the difficult with the impossible."

Those five words often work their miracles in bolstering the human spirit. To have some folks around, as we all know, only adds weight to our discouragement. They say things that deplete our inner resources. Our determination to play the hero sags in their presence. We wish they had not come—or that they had been wise enough to keep silent. But there are other folks we meet on the great highway of life who know how to speak words of helpfulness. We are stronger because of their utterances. They help us to play the man even though we are encountering tremendous odds. When the going is hard, and the battle seems to be going against us, what a help it is to have some Clara Urquhart whisper in our ear and say, "You must not be discouraged."

The folks who have the wisdom never to confuse the difficult with the impossible are priceless assets. In our kind of world most of the worth while things that need to be done are fraught with all kinds of hazards. (The building of peace for the world, for example.) One of the most important lessons we ever learn is never to abandon as impossible the projects that must be carried on by some one if the world is to be saved from destruction. If memory serves me accurately it was Lincoln who said: "What is wrong cannot be permanent; what is right cannot be impossible."

One way God uses to keep humans at the tasks upon which hope depends is by seeing to it that there are a few persons scattered around in almost every community who have the insight to see that because a project is difficult does not necessarily mean that it is impossible; and who are always urging their fellow mortals on in the good work they are doing by those five little words that mean so much, saying: "You must not be discouraged." The great apostle, in effect, was employing those five words when he exhorted the Galatians: "Let us not grow tired of doing good, for in so doing we will reap the harvest if we do not give up." (6:9—Phillips translation)

Local Catholic churches will observe the day with special pulpits announcements and sermons on charity. An illustrated folder, "Let Your Heart Dictate," outlining Catholic Charities' accomplishments in 1960, will be distributed at all Masses.

Later in the day the volunteer workers, organized in parish teams and carrying credentials, will start their rounds to enroll Catholic families in the annual appeal, stressing Cardinal Spellman's guide for generous giving: at least one day's wage or income.

The Week of United Prayer is held the first full week of each year, to coincide with the National Week of Prayer.

Plans will be discussed to have Dr. Clyde Narramore, psychologist in the Los Angeles public school system, conduct a seminar in Kingston. Dr. Narramore is a noted Christian psychiatrist. His topics here will include a discussion on Principles of Counseling, Counseling with the Mentally Ill and Counseling about Sex Problems.

Dr. Narramore has designated a day late in June to be in Kingston, planning to devote the entire day to this seminar.

The seminar is not limited to pastors but all leaders of church, youth and community projects may attend. He is a graduate of Columbia University and the author of a number of books written for the layman and dealing with the basic problems of life.

Arrangements have been made by the chairman of the ministerial association, the Rev. Willard D. Crunkilton.

Investment Bankers' Role A Key One for Business

Q "Just what are investment bankers, and what do they do?"

A Investment bankers serve the long-term banking needs of corporations. They provide the organization through which a corporation can market its securities to the public in return for funds needed in business expansion.

In contrast are the commercial banks from which corporations borrow on a short-term basis—say, to meet a payroll or to finance a seasonal inventory.

When a corporation decides to sell publicly a sizable amount of its securities, an investment banking house will normally be called in to "underwrite" or conditionally guarantee the success of the issue. In larger issues, many houses will participate.

The investment banker's skill is vital in deciding the type of security to be issued, its price, and its timing. After the details are worked out, the investment banker in effect purchases the issue from the corporation, which receives its money in return.

Next comes the job of retailing the issue to the public. This may be done by the original underwriters. In many cases, a larger selling group will be formed as other dealers are asked to join in the sale. The issue is then sold to the public in accordance with federal and state security laws.

Q "We are in sixties, and own shares of Aluminum, a company of America. Should we hold or sell?"—B. W.

A Aluminum producers still appear troubled by excess capacity, and this may take a while to work out. Alcoa shares have recovered some lost ground in the recent general market advance. Industry conditions should improve as the economy picks up, but action of the shares may be slow. I believe you would be better off if you switched this stock into Purex (OTC), a valuable merchandiser. Purex makes a wide line of household cleansers and toiletries and has had an unusually good record of earnings growth.

IT'S UP TO EACH OF US

Often you hear scientists in many fields speak feelingly of the time lag that usually exists between the appearance of marvelous new discoveries and their wide use by the people they can benefit.

But the really tragic time gap is in health, for there the costly lag spells death, disease and physical handicap — unnecessary in so many instances. Many of the millions of dollars fruitfully spent on medical research are not translated into bolstering health and saving life.

To dramatize this problem, the Public Health Service has put out an illustrated booklet setting forth its severe human cost.

There are said to be at least 40,000 needless cancer deaths a year. If all current knowledge were applied, we'd save 120,000 cancer patients annually, instead of 80,000. And millions in hospital bills and lost income would be saved.

Preventable attacks of rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease kill 20,000 annually. Simple, prompt treatment of throat infections that lead to these ailments can block them.

The nation has 500,000 mentally ill people who fill half our hospital beds. Yet mental health clinics, guidance services and psychiatric aid could nip many such illnesses in the formative stage. And new drugs and methods of care can shorten the time the mentally ill need to spend under institutional care.

Glaucoma and diabetes account for a fifth of all cases of blindness. Yet surveys show that a million persons with glaucoma and a million and a half with diabetes get no treatment at all, because they don't even know they have these ailments. They are recruits for the ranks of the blind. Easy tests can determine whether a person has either of these conditions.

We could be close to wiping out tuberculosis as a big health problem. Nevertheless, we still have 60,000 new cases and 12,000 deaths every year because treatment is either inadequate or is broken off.

Though the Salk vaccine has existed in ample supply for years and the total of polio cases has dropped dramatically, 6,000 persons were paralyzed by this disease in 1959. Surveys show a high percentage of low income families are not vaccinated. Nearly half the victims are under five years of age.

To wipe out the costly time lag, the PHS urges you and your community to make the fullest possible use of: immunization against preventable disease; periodic check-ups; rehabilitation programs for the chronically ill and disabled; trained health personnel and facilities.

Millions suffer and die who need not. If this painful, costly loss is ever to end, they must act—in time—to help save themselves.

ANXIETY AND HOPE

Even in what may prove to be its death throes, the Cuban regime headed by Fidel Castro is spewing venom at the United States. Cuban Foreign Minister Roa has charged in the United Nations that the counter-revolutionary invasion of the island is an attack by mercenaries organized and financed by the United States.

U. S. Ambassador Stevenson has properly responded that Roa's charge is "totally false." The evidence supports this denial. There is every reason to believe that Secretary of State Rusk meant precisely what he said when he told reporters, "The United States will not interfere in Cuba."

This obviously cannot be taken to suggest that the American people are indifferent to the blood bath which has now begun in a nation only a few miles from our shores. As Rusk said, it is no secret that this country's people sympathize with those fighting dictatorship. When Stevenson declared that by accusing the United States Roa was actually seeking "protection for a terroristic regime from the natural wrath of the Cuban people," he surely spoke for most Americans.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
 THE LATIN REVOLUTION

Revolutions follow a general pattern although each one is particular in some manner due to the character of the people and the geography of the country. The American Revolution was more in the nature of a civil war, for although the United States freed itself from Great Britain, it retained British Common Law as a basis for its legal system and the American Constitution was influenced by the changing character of the British constitution. The French Revolution was a social explosion which sought to alter the mode of life of the French people. On the other hand, the European revolutions in the 1830's and 1848 were principally political and economic.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 was one of the most profound in the history of man. What it introduced was not merely a political and economic change but a total alteration in human concepts in all phases of human thought and activity. Marxism is not only a revolutionary movement; it is a religious movement in the sense that it seeks to substitute humanism for deism; the law of necessity for moral law; the scientific approach to philosophy rather than a moral approach. Soviet Russia regards adherence to its dialectical materialistic philosophy, generally referred to as Marxism-Leninism, as the only practical (scientific) method of achieving ends. Although Marxism is pragmatic, it rejects American pragmatism as no longer useful to accomplish its major end, which is the conquest of all mankind by its own philosophy.

The Russian Revolution has been astonishingly and unexpectedly successful in many fields. In an era of scientific discovery and development, Marxism is understandable by intellectuals throughout the world. This has proved to be a major practical advantage for the Russians, for in every country, the leadership elements have tended to keep an open ear to a Marxist interpretation of various intellectual disciplines. What many anti-Communist businessmen, including publishers, forget is that those who propagate ideas, clergymen, writers, professors, exercise a direct influence upon the next generation. For instance, no publisher of a newspaper or magazine in the United States, during the past 30 years, has had as much influence upon American thought as Walter Lippmann.

Such a revolution as the Cuban must be stripped of its nonsense to be understood. Take off Fidel's whiskers and his drab uniform, get rid of Raul's pony-tail and Che's sneer and look at the Cuban Revolution as a Marxist effort to contain the United States. Those who talk about the authentic and autonomous hemispheric revolution talk nonsense, because what they see is a Marxist effort such as Jane Addams produced at Hull House in Chicago rather than a political operation against the United States, which is the fact.

From this standpoint, Castro has not developed a revolution at all. He has seized territory on behalf of the Soviet Universal State, imported a large number of Chinese, Czech and Polish Communists to show him how to operate a dictatorship and to keep within the Marxist line. It is unfortunate that the State Department and the CIA tolerated Castro's seizure of Cuba on the absurd doctrine that there are good and bad dictators and that someone in Washington has a magnet with which he can select a good or a bad dictator. Castro has turned out to be the worst that Washington has yet selected. In fact, it is said by Latin Americans that we tend to pick the wrong men because we measure all human beings by American standards. For instance, it is suggested that the three Cubans who are acceptable to the CIA, one might be worse than Castro. Whether this is true or not, I am, at this moment, incapable of judging, but that we have generally chosen badly is in the record.

Revolutions spring up for no reason. They are the result of tyranny and poverty, of distress and hopelessness. The leadership of a revolution need not be of the class that revolts. The French and Russian Revolutions were led by intellectuals whom the proletariat accepted. In fact, it is probably true that the proletariat distrusts its own leadership at critical moments. For instance, neither Walter Reuther nor Jimmy Hoffa could lead a revolution in the United States but Elijah Muhammad might. The followers of Reuther and Hoffa are among the bourgeoisie rather than the proletariat, which, in the United States, tends to be big and dumb.

There's No Need to Add to Punishment of Aloneness

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Should a child be allowed to play during punishment? I send my older boy to his room when he picks on his younger brother. I know that he spends the time reading comics or playing with his toys. This bothers me. Sending a child to his room to have a good time with his toys doesn't seem much of a punishment to me.

ANSWER: No? Tell me something. What happens with you if you quarrel with your husband at breakfast?

After he leaves, you may just sit by yourself at the table. After a while, you pull yourself together. You wash the pretty dishes you take such pride in. You polish the new percolator.

Are you happy playing with these household toys? Are you having a good time with this group of equipment that usually gives you such satisfaction? Of course not.

You just go through the motions of interest in your housekeeping toys. The pleasure they usually give has been destroyed by the quarrel.

O.K. Neither does a child whom we have punished enjoy playing with his toys. He is punished not by disconnection from comic books and chemistry sets but by disconnection from us. So we can leave him the poor comfort of his toys without anxiety.

We are confused about this because we are confused about our own importance to children. We're such valuable creatures in our own eyes that we cannot believe Johnny really suffers from disconnection with us. No. To really punish Johnny, we must deprive him of comics and dump trucks.

The brutality of "solitary" confinement lies not in the removal of things from a criminal but in the removal of human contact. Unending isolation from people was Cain's most dreadful punishment.

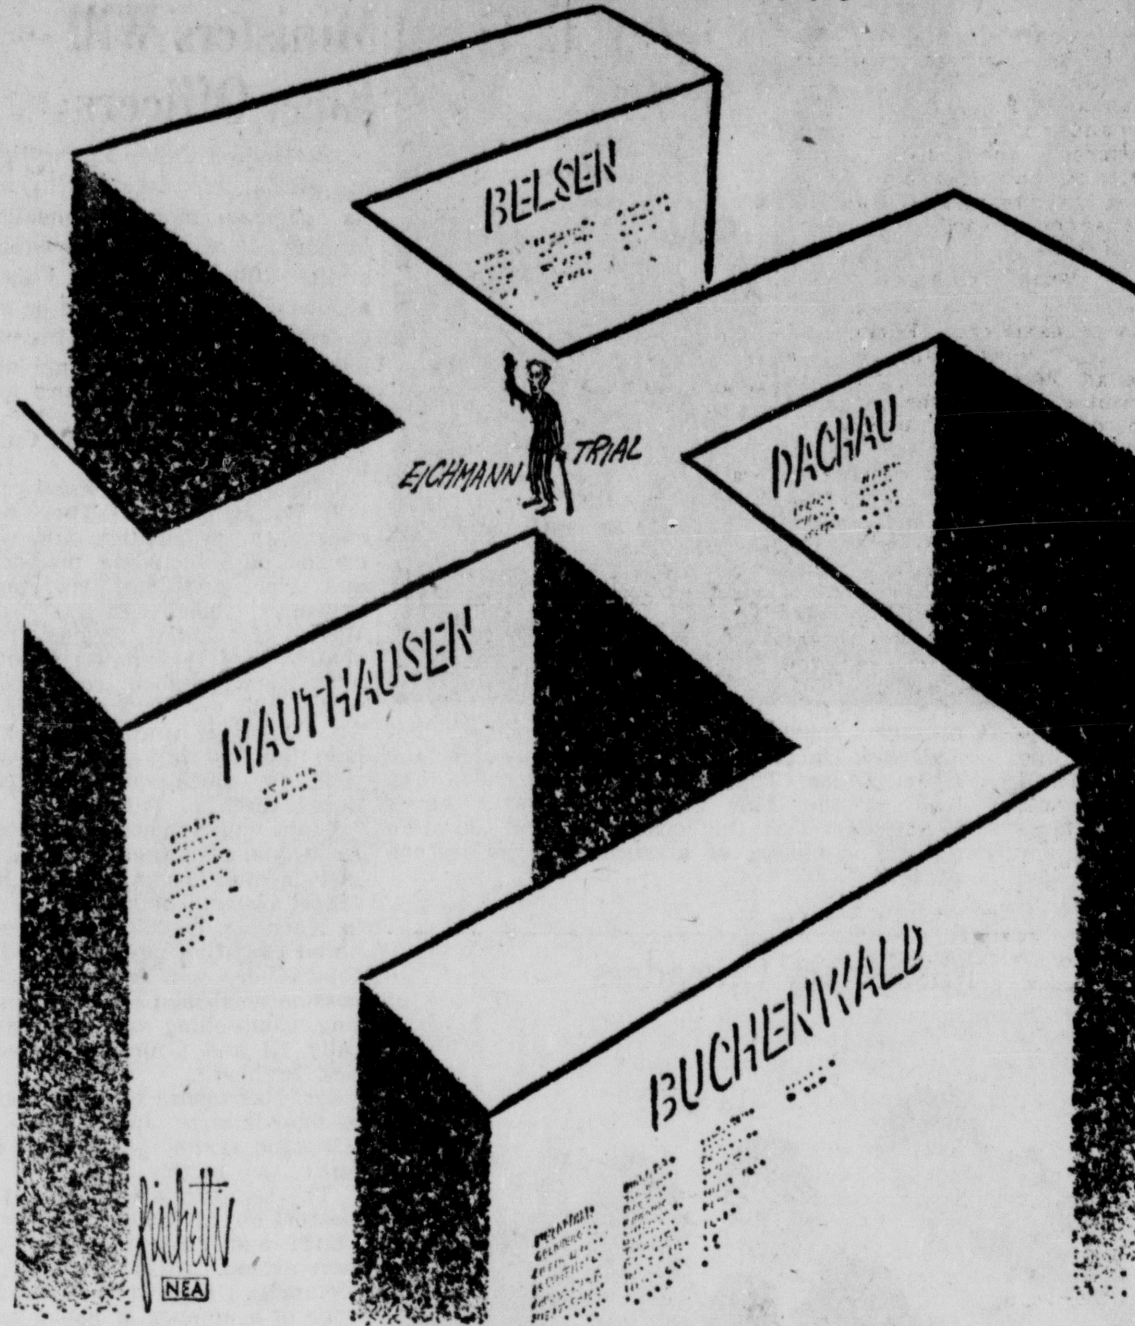

Those of us who fear to give punished children the poor comfort of their toys need to wonder why we so belittle our value to little boys and girls.

Thus far the United States has not interfered in an affair that is, for all its international implications, essentially the business of the Cuban people. In following this wise policy, our government has thwarted repetition of the old charge that we seek to manipulate Latin American governments for our own interests. That policy ought to be continued, but this will not prevent most Americans from watching the counter-revolution's progress with anxiety and hope.

Nasser's ambition to be a dictator of major rank seems destined to fail, but there's some consolation for him: he may live longer this way.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Kennedy had better watch his English.

President Eisenhower used to be the despair of reporters who covered his press conferences, when he broke into one of his rambling discourses.

In answer to a question on the Texas election at a Kennedy press conference, he got a little rattled and let go with this grammarian's nightmare: "Well, I would think it would probably be unwise—and I don't know how profitable it would be. I will say that—to attempt to make a judgment. You could—each side can—claim some comfort out of the election. But I think Mr. Blakely—Senator Blakely—runs as a Democrat, and I think his prospects—I think he will run an active and vigorous campaign. But I would not attempt in a divided field with over 71 candidates to make any judgments which way Texas is going."

AN ENTERPRISING reporter had a personal question for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on his Washington visit. "This summer I'm going to take my vacation in Germany and plan to visit Berlin, Hamburg, Stuttgart and Munich," the newsmen said. "What would you suggest I see and do?" Smiling, the 85-year-old German leader replied, "Add Bonn to your itinerary."

UPON RECEIVING a Rockefeller Public Service Award, Charles (Chip) Bohlen, former Ambassador to Russia and new special assistant to the Secretary of State, expressed his thanks like this: "The timing of the cash part of the award is beautiful, coming as it does just a few days before the April tax deadline."

er of the Democratic National Committee, played golf with the president on Kennedy's recent Palm Beach vacation. On the fairway, Kennedy asked: "Matt, how's the party deficit?"

McCloskey replied that it was in the range of $3 million. "Good heavens," the President responded. "What would it have been if we'd lost?"

THE OUTSPOKEN conservatism of Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has made him the target of Washington gagsters. Latest barb appears in the weekly newsletter of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education. COPE asks, "Is it true that even Senator Goldwater's watch is so backward it goes ticktock?"

South might well have taken some action after North's jump to four spades and as you can see if he had gone on to a small slam he would have made it since the spade finesse was on. However, the game was duplicate and South was in a conservative mood and passed quietly at the game contract. West opened the queen of hearts, East won the trick with his ace and looked around for new worlds to conquer only to see quickly that there was no legitimate way for him to find a trick anywhere.

However, East saw an illegitimate way and promptly proceeded to lead the five of diamonds right into dummy's long suit. South won in dummy and led the queen of spades. Needless to say East played low and South had a real duplicate player's problem.

If East had led a singleton and the spade finesse lost, East would get to ruff a diamond and South would be held to four.

Finally, South decided this was the case so he went up with the ace of spades. Now East made his king of spades and held South to five odd.

Strangely enough, this trick made no difference in match points. All other North-South pairs happened to be in a bidding mood. They all bid six spades and took the finesse.

New Town Center

To Be Used for 1st Time in May

The newly established Town of Rosendale Recreation Center, formerly the Maple Hill School, will be used for the first time May 13 when the Rosendale Democratic Club Inc. will hold a card party. The party, at 8 p. m., will be open to the public with all proceeds being donated to the Town of Rosendale. The money will be used to improve and equip the newly established Town Recreation Center.

Plans were announced at the regular monthly meeting of the Democratic Club of Rosendale which was held at its meeting hall on Main Street, Rosendale.

At that time it was announced the club was desirous of assisting the Town Board of Rosendale in fulfilling the town's plan to make the former Maple Hill school, on old Route 32 in Maple Hill, a recreation center for all organizations of the town to utilize for whatever purposes they desire, for the benefit of the entire community. The only obstacle presently facing the town board is lack of revenue at this time to equip the building without using tax money. To remedy this the town board, during the past year, indicated it would be receptive to donations and any donations made could be established as a memorial to anyone the donor desired.

In response to this Henry Mollenhauer, Rosendale dairyman, former Justice of the Peace of the town, and brother of Supervisor George Mollenhauer, donated card tables to equip the new recreation center. This donation was made as a memorial to the late William Delaney, former postmaster of Rosendale and former chairman of the Town of Rosendale Democratic party.

Admission to the card party May 13 will be nominal and there will be refreshments and awards.

Tickets may be obtained from Town Clerk Mrs. Catherine O'Leary at the town clerk's office, Main Street. Donations of awards are requested and they may be left at the town clerk's office, in town hall.

The town board has indicated any and all requests for use of the recreation center be made through the town clerk. Supervisor Mollenhauer and the town board are anxious for townspeople and organizations of the town to make use of the center.

The hall was acquired from the Kingston Central School District, Consolidated, during the past year after it had been abandoned for school purposes. Title was acquired by the town, subject to the title reverting back to the school district if it should cease to be used as a public building by the town.

Fluoridation Is Studied by P-TC

The Rosendale-Cottkill Parent-Teacher Club decided to investigate further the possibility of making fluoridation treatments available to the children attending the Rosendale School next year.

A report on a proposed dental program or fluoridation treatments was given by the Mmes. Gene Van Winkle, Dominick Petrone and John Nielsen, following a conference with Dr. Simon Carrood, Lawrenceville dentist. Any parent having any opinion to give regarding the matter should contact the committee or Mrs. James Schulz, president of the Parent-Teacher Club.

The nominating committee, consisting of Mrs. James Meigel, Mrs. Harold Arnold, Miss Susan Horner and Mrs. Schulz, proposed the following slate of officers, which was unanimously approved.

Mrs. Harold Arnold, president; Miss Hornaker, vice president; Mrs. Gene Van Winkle, secretary and Mrs. John Nielsen, treasurer.

The Mmes. Petrone, Arnold, Joseph Salvatore, James Carter, Meigel, George Winters and Frank Connel will assist in making plans for the annual school picnic to be held during the last week of school.

The Parent-Teacher Club banner, given to the grade which has the most parents attending the meeting was awarded to Miss Hornaker's first grade.

rising was "a premeditated and undisciplined act" by retired generals. He said they had seized the government buildings in Algiers but "in all the rest of the territory the situation is normal in every respect. The government is taking all necessary measures to insure that force rests with the law."

Along with Challe the rebel communique broadcast by Algiers Radio was also signed by Paratrooper Gen. Raoul Salan, who played a prominent role in the 1958 rising in Algeria that brought De Gaulle back to power.

Salan recently has exiled himself in Spain. It was not believed that he had arrived on Algerian soil but he was expected momentarily.

Says Powers Shifted

The rebel communique said "The powers held by the civil authorities have entirely passed to military authorities."

French officers who have fought the Algerian nationalists in the 6½-year rebellion have been among the bitterest opponents of De Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria.

Other generals who joined the revolt were Air Force Gen. Edmond Jouhaud and Army Gen. Henri Zeller.

After the communique, Algiers Radio said, "the individuals having participated directly in the attempt to abandon Algeria and the Sahara will be placed under arrest and brought before a military tribunal."

State of Siege Declared
The radio declared a "state of siege" in Algeria but promised that all "fundamental liberties and guarantees assured by the constitution are entirely maintained."

The first reaction among Europeans in the city was one of elation. Cars streamed through the streets blasting their horns in the three-two cadence that means "Algerie, Française (Algeria is French)."

How many troops were involved in the sudden coup was unknown. Nor was it clear yet whether the army claim to control of all Algeria was true.

There was no violence in the pre-dawn military rising.

Gay and Colorful
The dancing and music are gay and colorful, and names you would never guess are surprisingly adept at the "Can Can," the "Varsity Drag" and in the lively baseball number from "Damn Yankees."

Two of the scenes which had the audience in hysterics was a silent movie revival, and the surprise role of Mayor Edwin F. Radel and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy's boys.

The singing roles, handled by Betty Lindsey, Mary Lou Gold and Alice Beecher are exceptionally well done. Pat MacFadden does a most inviting Gypsy Rose Lee, while the pantomime of the Gilligans and the dancing of the Mueblers are of high calibre. Inez Cline, Dordie Hanstein, Peggy Beale and Jean Baer take care of the Leagues' stripper music up most convincingly. In fact, the entire cast deserves credit for the good job they have done.

Funds for Charities

The Follies show is sponsored by the Kingston Junior League to raise funds for local charities. The entire production has been under the direction of Calvin Swanson of Jerome H. Carrell Productions, New York, who has produced more than 100 shows for Junior Leagues and Women's clubs all over America. Last night Mr. Swanson proved again that he could mold a cast of local people into a show bubbling over with lively, tuneful entertainment.

All in all, there are a lot of surprises and a heap of fun for those who attend tonight's second performance.

Ellenville Youth Is Still Critical

A 17-year-old Ellenville youth who suffered a "spell" while hiking with a group of companions in the Shawangunk Mountains near that village on Good Friday, was reported in critical condition today at Kingston Hospital.

John Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter, of Lincoln Street, Ellenville, suffered a spell of some kind.

Marvin Moore, of Ellenville, who was in the group ran about 10 miles to the village for assistance. Porter was carried about a half mile to an ambulance, which rushed the youth to Veterans Memorial Hospital, thence to Kingston Hospital.

Taylor to Study

purpose Kennedy had in mind in designating Taylor to conduct a study of a specialized phase of military operations, Salinger cited the last paragraph of Kennedy's speech two days ago before a group of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"We intend to profit from this lesson. We intend to re-examine and re-orient our forces of all kinds—our tactics and other institutions—here in this community. We intend to intensify our efforts for a struggle in many ways more difficult than war, where disappointment will often accompany us."

In Bid for Support

Taylor's appointment was announced as the president awaited the hour for a meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in an evident bid to rally strong national support for critical steps which he may consider necessary to deal with the increasingly dangerous Cuban crisis.

A White House announcement of the session—at Camp David, Md.—emphasized Cuba as the topic for the conference. But it did not rule out the prospect that Kennedy could discuss with his predecessor a broad range of intensifying cold war conflicts with the Soviet Union.

Will Fly to David

Before flying to Camp David by helicopter Kennedy met with the National Security Council, presumably to discuss possible future moves against the pro-Communist government of Cuba in the wake of this week's abortive anti-Castro invasion.

In the midst of these developments, the President was reported to have ordered a thorough study of reasons for the defeat of the rebel invasion attempt which began last weekend with the United States' moral support—and, it was generally believed here, with some backing of U. S. money and arms.

The President was understood to be concerned about what some authorities called a failure to calculate accurately in advance the strength of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's military reaction to the rebel assault as well as possible errors in intelligence.

White House news secretary Pierre Salinger disclosed Friday night that Kennedy and Eisenhower would meet at Camp David, the Catocin Mountain retreat near Gettysburg, Pa., which Eisenhower used for conferences with foreign leaders.

Will Brief Eisenhower

The President arranged the luncheon session in a telephone call to Eisenhower Friday morning. The former chief executive was at his Gettysburg farm. Salinger said Kennedy wanted to bring Eisenhower up to date on the Cuban situation believing that "as leader of the Republic party and as former president he should know what the situation is."

Salinger also disclosed that Kennedy had been in indirect contact with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, another Republican leader, and that he had conferred Friday with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

JFK, Nixon Confer

The contacts with Republicans followed Kennedy's meeting at the White House Thursday with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent for the presidency last year.

Nixon said in New York Friday night that he had told Kennedy he would support him "even to the commitment of American armed forces."

Nixon said that as a private citizen he would back Kennedy in such a move if Kennedy considered it necessary to "stop the buildup of the Communist beachhead in Cuba."

Both Kennedy and Eisenhower arranged to fly to Camp David by helicopter, Kennedy going directly from the White House and Eisenhower from his farm. They last met on inauguration day, Jan. 20, when Kennedy took over the reins of government.

3 Persons Lose

Lives in Crash, Warning Planned

LANCASTER, N. Y. (AP) — Three persons were killed Friday in a two-car collision at an intersection where workmen had started earlier in the day to install a blinker warning light.

Dead were Richard T. Sietek, 38, of Cheektowaga; his wife, Sandra, 45; and Joseph Sumera, 56, of Buffalo.

Police said Sumera apparently approached the intersection, which is located on a slight grade, at a high rate of speed, and swerved into the wrong lane to avoid hitting another vehicle traveling in the same direction.

The intersection has been the scene of several previous accidents, police said, and the blinker light was planned in a move to reduce the number of mishaps.

Be Ready

Ulster County Commander William E. Polk, general chairman of the dinner.

Thomas M. Bohan, Ulster Park, introduced the distinguished guests at the speakers' table, among them being Past National Commander Edward N. Schiebler of Albany.

Must Be Alert

Referring to the Legion's 42 years of existence, Burke said that today more than ever "we have an obligation and duty to determine whether the nation is on a course perfectly set for our welfare." He stressed foreign relations as a major concern.

"We have seen three wars in a generation," he said and pointed out that the United States is in a more precarious position today than ever.

Referring to Russia, he said "We know the Soviet is a threat to the United States and the whole western hemisphere." The commander pointed to the Communist action in Cuba and stressed that "we cannot permit Cuba to fall right at the very gates of Miami, Fla."

Must Give Help

The President must take the steps necessary to our security, he said, and declared that those rebelling against the Castro government must be encouraged and helped to bring freedom back to the island.

Commander Burke said he had visited nine foreign countries in Europe and witnessed what is going on there and what the United States is doing to help promote friendly relations and peace.

He was especially complimentary to the U. S. troops serving in Berlin and called them the finest soldiers in the world.

Necessary to Be Ready

They must be ready at all times to hold the line against aggression, and are doing just that even though it is a sacrifice to them and their families.

The commander asked that Americans be as alert as the servicemen serving overseas.

"They must be ready day and night," he said, "for the strike that is likely to occur at any time."

"We actually cannot consider it a cold war," Burke declared, "when American aircraft is being shot down over open waters."

The commander referred to the reported execution of Howard Anderson in Cuba on a charge that he was accused of anti-Castro activities.

He said the sacrifice being made by those in the far-flung bastions of the world, he said and realize that this war can be lost.

Recalls 1776

He declared that America has certain obligations and cannot depend on any other nation. The United States has arsenals to use and must be ready to do so if necessary, Burke said.

Referring to attempts for settlement by resolutions, he said, "if we relied on resolutions in 1776, we'd still be a colony of Britain."

Commander Burke is due in Rome, N. Y., tonight and Tuesday will attend a dinner in the Hotel Commodore, New York City, arranged by the Department of New York, American Legion.

Guests at Head Table

Among those at the head table last night besides the speakers mentioned were: C. W. Geile, assistant director of national Legion public relations; Vice Commander Edwin L. Baker of the Department of New York; Herman Harrington, vice district commander; Andrew J. Murphy III, district adjutant; the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, district chaplain, who gave the invocation and benediction; Benjamin E. Bragg, district sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Edward W. Snyder, chairman of Ulster County Auxiliary. Harry G. Maisenholder was accompanist for the National Anthem.

Andrew S. Hickey was singled out for an introduction by Commander Bohan, who noted that the retired U. S. Navy officer wore an American Legion cap with the designation "Paris Post No. 1."

There was representation at the dinner from Sullivan, Schoharie, Rensselaer, Greene, Columbia and Albany.

Legionnaires were urged to attend the Department of New York convention in Albany on July 27, 28 and 29. Commander Bohan, who called for a concerted membership drive in his third district.

Libel Suit Is for $350,000

Mistrial Declared for Test Of Cancer Drug in Question

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge, in a move to determine the medical value of the controversial cancer drug Krebiozen, has declared a mistrial in a $350,000 libel suit.

Judge Julius H. Miner of U. S. District Court said Thursday his action was the simplest way to postpone the trial until testing of the drug is completed by a federal agency. He ruled that Krebiozen's medical value is the center of the case and he had asked for the test.

Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, earlier agreed to have the National Cancer Institute, a division of his agency, conduct the test. It has been estimated the testing would take three months to a year. Ribicoff said data submitted must include clinical experience with the drug during the past 10 years.

The drug was developed by Dr. Steven Durovic, a Yugoslav-born physician who has been sworn as a witness in the case along with his brother, Marco, a lawyer.

Missing Girl, 15, Found; Man Held For Grand Jury

A 15-year-old girl, missing since Tuesday, was found in an unoccupied home near Malden late Friday afternoon and a Saugerties man was picked up in connection with the case.

Arrested on a burglary charge was Donald Fogarty, 23, of 244 Main Street, Saugerties.

Fogarty was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur Reilly of the Town of Ulster, waived examination and was committed to the Ulster County Jail to await action of the grand jury.

Said to Be Foster Child

The girl, unidentified, but reported to be a foster child, was taken to the detention ward of the jail where she will await an appearance in children's court.

The girl, described as tall and a tip was received that the girl might be in the Malden area and Constable Charles Riley of the Town of Saugerties, and others, scoured the area, checking on unoccupied homes and shacks.

At 2:10 p. m. yesterday Saugerties village police received a call from a resident of the Malden area, John Martin Jr., who reported that a strange man, carrying a bag of groceries, was trying to get into an unoccupied home owned by Mrs. Moskos of Malden. Martin resides in the same neighborhood.

Found Walking on 9W

Riley was notified and rushed to the home. Also notified were Kingston state police.

In the meantime Patrolman Donald Sullivan of the Saugerties police had found Fogarty walking along Route 9W and picked him up as fitting the description of the man trying to enter the Moskos home.

Riley found the door locked, entered through a window and found the missing girl asleep on a couch on the third floor.

He awoke the girl, who dressed and was taken to the police barracks where she made a statement. She was then removed to the detention ward of the jail. Fogarty was also questioned.

Blankets were reportedly taken from other apartments in the three-story home.

The girl had been placed in a foster home on April 13, it was reported.

Fallout Blamed For Death and Misery at Ranch

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Death and misery came to the Preston Mitchell Ranch in slow stages two years ago.

Many of his sheep became sick and died. Others staggered drunkenly around the rolling hill country of the Wyoming-South Dakota border area. In all, 127 of the animals died. The Mitchells sold 327 others.

Then Mitchell, his wife Laura and their six children also were afflicted with a strange malady. Their hair fell out. They became violently ill, apparently without cause.

These claims and others were made Friday in a U. S. District Court suit in which attorneys for the Alladin, Wyo., family ask $994,461 in damages from the federal government.

The suit claims the agonies are the result of radiation poisoning. Without detailing the claim, attorneys for the family say that negligent handling of radioactive material by Atomic Energy Commission personnel caused a radioactive fallout on the Mitchell Ranch on April 17, 1959.

U. N. Concludes, Votes Congo Fund

By TOM HOGGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The General Assembly wound up its marathon 15th session early today after staving off financial disaster by approving a $100 million Congo peace operation fund.

The assembly finally agreed on the measure after hours of wrangling and corridor haggling that followed an earlier attempt to get the required two-thirds majority for a similar proposal. The final vote was 54 to 15 with 23 abstentions.

Latin American nations who had opposed the move finally yielded after they faced an alternative of the assembly staying in session until the financial problem was solved.

The wrangle over Congo finances reflected the stormy tone of the session which was highlighted by the Soviet Union's all-out attack on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and the entire U. N. Congo operation.

The session opened on a dramatic note with an all-star cast headed up by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. It came to a turbulent end with the United States and the Communist bloc swapping bitter charges over Fidel Castro's Cuba.

2 Key Witnesses Named for Trial Of Nazi Officer

JERUSALEM (AP)—A Columbia University professor was among two key witnesses named today who will testify in the trial of Adolf Eichmann about the extent of the destruction of European Jews during World War II.

Israel charges Eichmann, a deportment chief in the Nazi Gestapo played a major part in the slaughter of an estimated 6 million Jews including a million children.

Dr. Salo Wittmayer Baron, an authority on Jewish affairs and professor of Jewish history at Columbia University in New York City, is scheduled to take the witness stand when the hearings in Jerusalem resume Monday.

The state also expects to call Dr. Benno Cohn, one-time leader of the Jewish community in Berlin.

Together, they are expected to outline the status of the Jews in Europe before the war, the first steps taken against them by the Nazis, and the dimensions of the blood-letting that followed.

Eichmann consistently minimizes his role in it. "I never killed a Jew," he says. "I never killed any man. I am not anti-Semitic."

He firmly contends that, as chief of the Gestapo, "Jewish affairs section," he was concerned almost entirely with rounding up Jews in various countries and arranging for their transportation to death camps.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Steel production in this economically depressed area has gone up almost 20 per cent since last month. Buffalo area mills were operating at 51.3 per cent of capacity, compared with 31.8 per cent last month.

Bethlehem Steel Corp. announced Friday that it had returned two steel-making open hearths and a blast furnace to operating status.

Order Jersey Man To Stand Trial For Area Death

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP)—A Sullivan County judge has ruled that Joseph Stacey, 34, of Lyndhurst, N. J., must stand trial on first degree murder charges in the slaying of a Liberty, N. Y., woman.

Judge Lawrence Cooke issued his ruling Friday after receiving a psychiatric report on Stacey.

Stacey is accused of the pistol slaying last Oct. 29 of Mrs. Sandra Allison in a Liberty dining room. Allison, separated from her husband, was the mother of a young son. Police said Stacey had been courting her.

Harris Brown Dies In City Friday, Pioneer Tire Man

Harris Brown, aged 71, of 137 Washington Avenue, who was a pioneer in the automobile tire business in Kingston, died Friday afternoon at the Benedictine Hospital.

His funeral will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Jensen and DeGaulle Funeral Home, 15 Downs Street. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel will officiate. Burial will be in Montepose Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home today from 7 to 9 p. m.

Native of Albany

A native of Albany, son of the late Morris and Rosa Blachman Brown, he came to Kingston in 1912 and established a retail auto tire store on Downs Street.

The demand for tires became greater with the increased popularity of the automobile and he moved to larger quarters at Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue. In this new location, he originated Brown's Servicenter, one of the largest wholesale and retail tire businesses in the area. Some years later he conducted a retail tire store at 705 Broadway, which he continued until his retirement a few years ago.

For many years he was active in the business and civic life of the community, devoting his time and talents toward its betterment. He was one of the pioneer members of the old Kingston Industrial organization, a forerunner of the Chamber of Commerce.

Was Amateur Fighter

As a young man, he was interested in athletics and belonged to the Albany Boys Athletic League. He later played amateur and professional baseball. When he came to Kingston he joined the YMCA and became a member of the Kingston YMCA basketball championship team in 1914-15. He also was a boxing devotee and engaged in over 100 bouts as an amateur under the name of K. O. Brown.

Fraternally, he was a member of Kingston Lodge, 10, F. and A. M., Ulster County Shrine Club and Kingston Lodge, 550, B. P. of E.

He was a member of Temple Emanuel and served as a trustee for many years.

Surviving are his wife, who before marriage was Lenore Schoenberger, and two daughters, Coralie, wife of Adrian Kaplan, and Phyllis, wife of Roger Silberman, all of Kingston. He also is survived by a sister, Mrs. Fannie Brody, two brothers, Jack and Herman Brown, all of Albany and two grandchildren, Linda Fran Kaplan and Richard Silberman.

A minor brush fire on the Old King's Highway between Centerville and Mt. Marion was doused by volunteers from the Centerville and Cedar Grove fire companies late Friday afternoon. rising was "a premeditated and undisciplined act" by retired generals. He said they had seized the government buildings in Algiers but "in all the rest of the territory the situation is normal in every respect. The government is taking all necessary measures to insure that force rests with the law."

Along with Challe the rebel commander broadcast by Algiers Radio was also signed by Paratrooper Gen. Raoul Salan, who played a prominent role in the 1958 rising in Algeria that brought De Gaulle back to power.

Salan recently has exiled himself in Spain. It was not believed that he had arrived on Algerian soil but he was expected momentarily.

Says Powers Shifted

The rebel communiqué said "The powers held by the civil authorities have entirely passed to military authorities."

French officers who have fought the Algerian nationalists in the 6½-year rebellion have been among the bitterest opponents of De Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria.

Other generals who joined the revolt were Air Force Gen. Edmond Jouhaud and Army Gen. Henri Zeller.

After the communiqué, Algiers Radio said, the individuals having participated in the attempt to abandon Algeria and the Sahara will be placed under arrest and brought before a military tribunal.

State of Siege Declared

The radio declared a "state of siege" in Algeria but promised that all "fundamental liberties and guarantees assured by the constitution are entirely maintained."

The first reaction among Europeans in the city was one of elation. Cars streamed through the streets blasting their horns in the three-two cadence that means "Algerie, Française (Algeria is French)."

How many troops were involved in the sudden coup was unknown. Nor was it clear yet whether the army claim to control of all Algeria was true.

There was no violence in the pre-dawn military rising.

League Follies

three strip teasers from Minsky's take the plane to Las Vegas. When they land out West, the Junior Leaguers are mistaken for the strip teasers, and the take-off from the streets is the Junior League delegation. The strippers get the culture, but what the League girls get from three well-known cowboys couldn't be put in their convention report.

Gay and Colorful

The dancing and music are gay and colorful, and names you would never guess are surprisingly adept at the "Can Can," the "Varsity Drag" and in the lively hoochie number from "Dama Yankies."

Two of the scenes which had the audience in hysterics was a silent movie revival, and the surprise role of Mayor Edwin F. Radel and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy's boys.

The singing roles, handled by Betty Lindsey, Mary Lou Gold and Alice Becker, are exceptionally well done. Pat MacFadden does a most inviting Gypsy Rose Lee, while the pantomime of the Giggians and the dancing of the Muellers are of high calibre. Inez Cline, Dordie Hanstein, Peggy Beale and Jean Baer take care of the Leagues' strip mix-up most convincingly. In fact, the entire cast deserves credit for the good job they have done.

Funds for Charities

The Follies show is sponsored by the Kingston Junior League to raise funds for local charities. The entire production has been under the direction of Calvin Swanson of Jerome H. Cargill Productions, New York, who has produced more than 100 shows for Junior Leagues and Women's clubs all over America. Last night Mr. Swanson proved again that he could mold a cast of local people into a show bubbling over with lively, tuneful entertainment.

All in all, there are a lot of surprises and a heap of fun for those who attend tonight's second performance.

Ellenville Youth Is Still Critical

A 17-year-old Ellenville youth who suffered a "spell" while hiking with a group of companions in the Shawangunk Mountains near that village on Good Friday, was reported in critical condition today at Kingston Hospital.

John Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter, of Lincoln Street, Ellenville, suffered a spell of some kind.

Marvin Moore, of Ellenville, who was in the group ran about two miles to the village for assistance. Porter was carried about a half mile to an ambulance, which rushed the youth to Veterans Memorial Hospital, thence to Kingston Hospital.

Taylor to Study

purpose Kennedy had in mind in designating Taylor to conduct a study of a specialized phase of military operations, Salinger cited the last paragraph of Kennedy's speech two days ago before a group of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"We intend to profit from this lesson. We intend to re-examine and re-orient our forces of all kinds—our tactics and other institutions here in this community. We intend to intensify our efforts for a struggle in many ways more difficult than war, where disappointment will often accompany us."

In Bid for Support

Taylor's appointment was announced by the president awaiting the hour for a meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in an evident bid to rally strong national support for critical steps which he may consider necessary to deal with the increasingly dangerous Cuban crisis.

A White House announcement of the session at Camp David, emphasized Cuba as the topic for the conference. But it did not rule out the prospect that Kennedy could discuss with his predecessor a broad range of intensifying cold war conflicts with the Soviet Union.

Will Fly to David

Before flying to Camp David by helicopter Kennedy met with the National Security Council, presumably to discuss possible future moves against the pro-Communist government of Cuba in the wake of this week's abortive anti-Castro invasion.

In the midst of these developments, the President was reported to have ordered a thorough study of reasons for the defeat of the rebel invasion attempt which began last weekend with the United States' moral support—and, it was generally believed here, with some backing of U. S. money and arms.

The President was understood to be concerned about what some authorities called a failure to calculate accurately in advance the strength of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's military reaction to the rebel assault as well as possible errors in intelligence.

White House news secretary Pierre Salinger disclosed Friday night that Kennedy and Eisenhower would meet at Camp David, the Catocin Mountain retreat near Gettysburg, Pa., which Eisenhower used for conferences with foreign leaders.

Will Brief Eisenhower

The President arranged the luncheon session in a telephone call. Eisenhower Friday morning, the former chief executive was at his Gettysburg farm.

Salinger said Kennedy wanted to bring Eisenhower up to date on the Cuban situation believing that "as leader of the Republican party and as former president he should know what the situation is."

Salinger also disclosed that Kennedy had been in indirect contact with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, another Republican leader, and that he had conferred Friday with Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

JFK, Nixon Confer

The contacts with Republicans followed Kennedy's meeting at the White House Thursday with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent for the presidency last year.

Nixon said in New York Friday night that he had told Kennedy he would support him "even to the commitment of American arms" for the Cuban crisis.

Nixon said that as a private citizen he would back Kennedy in such a move if Kennedy considered it necessary to "stop the buildup of the Communist beachhead in Cuba."

Both Kennedy and Eisenhower arranged to fly to Camp David by helicopter, Kennedy going directly from the White House and Eisenhower from his farm. They last met on inauguration day, Jan. 20, when Kennedy took over the reins of government.

3 Persons Lose Lives in Crash, Warning Planned

LANCASTER, N. Y. (AP) — Three persons were killed Friday in a two-car collision at an intersection where workmen had started earlier in the day to install a blinker warning light.

Dead were Richard T. Sietek, 38, of Cheektowaga; his wife, Sandra, 35; and Joseph Sumera, 36, of Buffalo.

Police said Sumera apparently approached the intersection, which is located on a slight grade, at a high rate of speed, and swerved into the wrong lane to avoid hitting another vehicle traveling in the same direction.

The intersection has been the scene of several previous accidents, police said, and the blinker light was planned in a move to reduce the number of mishaps.

Be Ready

Ulster County Commander William E. Polk, general chairman of the dinner.

Thomas M. Bohan, Ulster Park, commander of the Third District, introduced the distinguished guests at the speakers' table, among them being Past National Commander Edward N. Schiebeling of Albany.

Must Be Alert

Referring to the Legion's 42 years of existence, Burke said that today more than ever "we have an obligation and duty to determine whether the nation is on a course perfectly set for our welfare." He stressed foreign relations as a major concern.

"We have seen three wars in a generation," he said and pointed out that the United States is in a more precarious position today than ever.

Referring to Russia, he said "We know the Soviet is a threat to the United States and the whole western hemisphere." The commander pointed to the Communist action in Cuba and stressed that "we cannot permit Cuba to fall right at the very gates of Miami, Fla."

Must Help

The President must take the steps necessary to our security, he said, and declared that those rebelling against the Castro government must be encouraged and helped to bring freedom back to the island.

Edward N. Burke said he had visited nine foreign countries in Europe and witnessed what is going on there and what the United States is doing to help promote friendly relations and peace.

He was especially complimentary to the U. S. troops serving in Berlin and called them the finest soldiers in the world.

Necessary to Be Ready

They must be ready at all times to hold the line against aggression, and to do so it is necessary that we be ready to them and their families.

The commander asked that Americans be as alert as the servicemen serving overseas. "They must be ready day and night," he said, "for the strike that is likely to occur at any time."

"We actually cannot consider it a cold war," Burke declared, "when American aircraft is being shot down over open waters."

The commander referred to the reported execution of Howard Anderson in Cuba on a charge that he was accused of anti-Castro activities.

"We must be ready to match the sacrifices being made by those in the far-flung nations of the world," he said and realize that this war can be lost.

Recalls 1776

He declared that America has certain obligations and cannot depend on any other nation. The United States has arsenals to use and must be ready to do so if necessary, Burke said.

Referring to attempts for settlement by resolutions, he said, "if we relied on resolutions in 1776, we'd still be a colony of Britain."

Commander Burke is due in Rome, N. Y., tonight and Tuesday will attend a dinner in the Hotel Commodore, New York City, arranged by the Department of New York, American Legion.

Guests at Head Table

Among those at the head table last night besides the speakers mentioned were: C. W. Geile, assistant director of national Legion public relations; Vice Commander Edwin L. Baker of the Department of New York; Herman Harrington, vice district commander; Andrew J. Murphy III, district adjutant; the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, district chaplain, who gave the invocation and benediction; Benjamin E. Briggs, district sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Edward W. Snyder, chairman of Ulster County Auxiliary; Harry G. Maisenholder was accompanist for the National Anthem.

Capt. Andrew S. Hickey was singled out for an introduction by Commander Bohan, who noted that the retired U. S. Navy officer was an American Legion cap with the designation "Paris Post No. 1."

There was representation at the dinner from Sullivan, Schoharie, Rensselaer, Greene, Columbia and Albany.

Legionnaires were urged to attend the Department of New York convention in Albany on July 27, 28 and 29 by Commander Bohan, who called for a concerted membership drive in his third district.

Libel Suit Is for $350,000

Mistrial Declared for Test Of Cancer Drug in Question

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge, in a move to determine the medical value of the controversial cancer drug Krebiozen, has declared a mistrial in a $350,000 libel suit.

Judge Julius H. Miner of U. S. District Court said Thursday his action was the simplest way to postpone the trial until testing of the drug is completed by a federal agency. He ruled that Krebiozen's medical value is the center of the case and he had asked for the test.

Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, earlier agreed to have the National Cancer Institute, a division of his agency, conduct the test.

It has been estimated the testing would take three months to a year. Ribicoff said data submitted must include clinical experience with the drug during the past 10 years.

The drug was developed by Dr. Steven Durovic, a Yugoslav-born physician who has been sworn as a witness in the case along with his brother, Marco, a lawyer.

Stoddard, former president of the University of Illinois and now chancellor of New York University, maintains he wrote the book in an attempt to air the controversy over the drug.

Missing Girl, 15, Found; Man Held For Grand Jury

A 15-year-old girl, missing since Tuesday, was found in an unoccupied home near Malden late Friday afternoon and a Saugerties man was picked up in connection with the case.

Arrested on a burglary charge was Donald Fogarty, 23, of 244 Main Street, Saugerties.

Fogarty was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur Riley of the Town of Ulster, waived examination and was committed to the Ulster County Jail to await action of the grand jury.

Said to Be Foster Child

The girl, unidentified, but reported to be a foster child, was taken to the detention ward of the jail where she will await an appearance in children's court.

The girl, described as tall and thin, was found in the Malden area and Constable Charles Riley of the Town of Saugerties, and others, scoured the area, checking on unoccupied homes and shacks.

At 2:10 p. m. yesterday Saugerties village police received a call from a resident of the Malden area, John Martin Jr., who reported that a strange man, carrying a bag of groceries, was trying to get into an unoccupied home owned by Aris Moshos of Malden. Martin resides in the same neighborhood.

Found Walking on 9W

Riley was notified and rushed to the home. Also notified were Kingston state police.

In the meantime Patrolman Donald Sullivan of the Saugerties police had found Fogarty walking along Route 9W and picked him up as fitting the description of the man trying to enter the Moshos home.

Riley found the door locked, entered through a window and searched the house. He found the missing girl asleep on a couch on the third floor.

He awoke the girl, who dressed and was taken to the police barracks where she made a statement. She was then removed to the detention ward of the jail. Fogarty was also questioned.

Blankets were reportedly taken from other apartments in the three story home.

The girl had been placed in a foster home on April 13, it was reported.

Fallout Blamed For Death and Misery at Ranch

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Death and misery came to the Freeston Mitchell Ranch in slow stages two years ago.

Many of his sheep became sick and died. Others staggered drunkenly around the rolling hill country of the Wyoming-South Dakota border area. In all, 127 of the animals died. The Mitchells sold 327 others.

Then Mitchell, his wife Laura and their six children also were afflicted with a strange malady. Their hair fell out. They became violently ill, apparently without cause.

The claims and others were made Friday in a U. S. District Court suit in which attorneys for the Alladin, Wyo., family ask $994,461 in damages from the federal government.

The suit claims the agonies are the result of radiation poisoning. Without detailing the claim, attorneys for the family say that negligent handling of radioactive material by Atomic Energy Commission personnel caused a radioactive fallout on the Mitchell Ranch on April 17, 1959.

Fresh Colors
Pep Up Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The ladies have risen to the paint bucket—house paint, that is.

It is not even a startling scene these days to see the women folk plastering walls or even on a ladder painting the exterior of the house.

Women have become more home fashion conscious and they want to change their color schemes when the mood strikes. Equipped with a color wheel from a paint shop or art store, they can choose a hue that may give a room that desirable new look.

If a room is very large, the aim is to make it cozy and more intimate. Darker colors will do that as they absorb light and make the area seem smaller. Light colors reflect more light and make areas seem larger. They are best for small rooms.

Painting woodwork the same color as the walls can add spaciousness to a room. If the room is large it will look more decorative with woodwork painted a different color from walls. A low ceiling may be made to look higher if it is painted a pale color or white. A color deeper than the walls may make a ceiling seem lower.

Tax Exemption—The New York State tax law was amended in 1958 to provide that eligible funds such as GI insurance dividends which are retained by the government to pay premiums on GI insurance policies, may be counted by a veteran in his claim for tax exemption on real property which he buys later. The amount of the money claimed for tax exemption must be covered by an equal amount of other monies actually paid on the property purchased. For example, if $100 of eligible money such as GI insurance dividends was used by the government to pay on GI insurance for a veteran and then in purchasing real property he pays at least $100 towards its purchase price he may claim the $100 for tax exemption purposes as it equals the amount of eligible money used by the government. Before the law was amended a veteran had to have his government insurance dividends sent to him in cash if he intended to use such dividends for tax exemption in connection with the purchase of real property. This meant that a veteran had to pay his government insurance with money other than the GI insurance dividends. The law as amended eliminates the technical requirement of first obtaining GI insurance dividends in cash to apply them on real property for tax exemption purposes. Instead it permits a veteran to claim tax exemption on an equivalent amount of money which he uses to buy real property.

Statistics—Educational and training benefits were received by 10,151,736 veterans under the WW II and Korean conflict GI bill programs. An additional 680,845 veterans received education and training benefits under the vocational rehabilitation programs of WW II and the Korean emergency.

Legislation—There has been some favorable activity on legislation under consideration by the Veterans Affairs Committee of the United States House of Representatives, H.R. 2953, the first pension bill of this session, has been approved by the House and sent to the United States Senate. This legislation would allow a veteran of two wars, WW II and the Korean conflict, with less than 90 days active service in a single war or conflict, to add together separate periods of active service to enable him to meet the 90-day requirement to qualify for a pension. H.R. 548, a vocational rehabilitation bill for post-Korean veterans with service-connected disabilities has been reported by the Veterans Affairs Committee and shortly is expected to be presented to the full House. This measure would provide vocational rehabilitation for veterans with service-connected disabilities rated 30 per cent or more in degree or in cases with lower disability ratings vocational rehabilitation would be allowed if a pronounced employment handicap exists.

Generally this bill would extend Public Law 16, the World War II Vocational Rehabilitation Act, and Public Law 894, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act for Korean veterans with service-connected disabilities. H.R. 4539 is a bill proposed to permit payment of a special insurance dividend to veterans with post-Korean National Service Life Insurance identified by the letter prefixes RS or W. This measure also has been reported by the House Veterans Affairs Committee. An estimated $60 million has piled up in the RS and W policy funds which would permit the payment of an average dividend of between $100 to $150 for eligible policyholders. No dividends can be paid on these policies under existing law.

Flat-Roof Split-Level
That Has Exterior Charm

By Associated Architects

Exterior treatment of a house has assumed new importance in the modern scheme of home planning. It is no longer a matter of choosing one finish, such as wood siding, shingles, brick veneer or stucco and calling it quits.

Now home designers are devoting as much attention to the external appearance as they do to interior layout and appointments. The result has been the production of a new array of dwellings that attain a high mark in individuality.

No better example of such treatment could be found, perhaps, than the beautiful modern split-level which Associated Architects calls "The Toledo."

The designers selected a combination of vertical and horizontal siding and added to it another choice, field-stone slabbing. The results were dramatic. The materials seem to attain a perfect blending. Furthermore, the choice is an ideal match for the flat-roof treatment extended into generous overhangs that shield against direct assault from outside elements.

Economy With Charm

While on the subject of the roof it would be well to consider what this choice means in actual cost of construction. It is an accepted fact that the flat roof is less expensive than other types. But some builders estimate that labor costs are cut in half for flat roof in comparison with hip or gable methods.

Also to be considered from the economy standpoint is the rectangular shape of "The Toledo." It is an extremely important factor to the budget-conscious family.

Before studying the many features the architects drew into the interior, take one more good look at how the siding combinations were employed to make this a home of complete charm. Wood siding is used on the two level portion of the house, horizontal on the first and vertical above.

For the one-level portion that contains the main living area, stone is used to grace the front and handsomely frame a fine picture window, and extends around into a natural ending as finish for the outside chimney.

Actually, "The Toledo" has four, rather than the customary three, levels. This is accomplished by placing the necessary basement one stage below the recreation room and garage. The main living area is another small flight up, over the basement, and the sleeping quarters at the top level over the garage and recreation room.

Spacious Openness

Spacious openness is the keynote of the main area. The living room with its picture window and fireplace occupies a front position. The dining room at the left rear might be considered a continuation of the living room, but the architects have provided a combination built-in china and decorator unit to affect some essence of separation.

Further enhancing the open planning theme is the corner window which floods the dining room with natural light. The kitchen also has a well-balanced openness. The work area has been divided into two L-shaped units that leave much of the room free for unobstructed movement in any direction, whether it be the living room, dining room, rear entry or stairway to the recreation room.

The three bedrooms on the upper level are all of good proportions, with the bath located at the rear and easily accessible. Closet space is plentiful. "The Toledo" which measures a basic 26 feet by 48 feet, can be built on level ground as well as a plot of irregular contour, with retaining walls fitting into the landscaping. The house contains 1,248 square feet of living space and has a cubage of 22,000.

Blueprints, including full materials lists, are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon.

Shoe Pockets

A shoe bag is always an acceptable gift and this can be made at home. One is appreciated more however, if the person making it puts an extra pocket on it to hold a soft cloth for dusting shoes before wearing them.

Staple Gun

A staple gun is handy when batts or blankets of mineral wool insulation are installed in a wall, ceiling or floor. Operated with one hand, the stapler frees the other hand to hold insulation in place. Staples should be no more than six inches apart.

About Building Code

Justice of the Peace James Palen, a member of Plattekill Town Board will explain about the adoption of the State Building Code by the town at the regular meeting of Town of Plattekill Republican Club Tuesday 8 p. m. in Hasbrouck Hall, Modena.

The code was adopted by the township and will go into effect June 1. All interested in the subject may attend. Refreshments will be served.

Asphalt Shingles

Asphalt shingles come in a wide range of colors that add distinction to a house and help correct design defects. Houses that are too tall appear lower with a dark roof and small houses can be made to appear larger by using lighter shades of roofing.

Good Tip

Use aluminum foil to divide an oblong baking dish into sections. Then place small amounts of leftovers in each section to warm them over. This saves on dish washing.

Change the water in a vase of fresh flowers every day; remove all leaves that may be under the water.

Bunks and Frills
For Little Jills

That sturdy bastion of boys' rooms, the bunkbed, is entering new fields. Mothers charged with housing more than one child per room appreciate the space-saving convenience of the double-decker bed.

Boys appreciate bunkbeds because they double as jungle gyms and forts from which to launch pillow fights.

But a glamorous bunk for girls just wasn't in the picture until Lisa Lambert, home furnishings coordinator for a large bedding corporation, prompted by her eight-year-old daughter, added frills and curtains.

The new look in bunks is achieved by putting slender rods held in place by movable clips along the sides and both ends of a two-story bed. Ready-made curtains in sheer organics, eyelets and floral prints are being sold to slide on these rods.

When I talked to Lisa, she showed me how simple it is to make bunkbed curtains if you have a favorite fabric or color you want to use. The curtains are 45 inches in length and are attached to valance, about 75½ inches long, which fits on the rod. The width of the curtains can vary depending on the amounts of fullness desired. Ends of the bunkbed will not require covers.

as full a curtain as the sides. With such frills, a dust ruffle is needed. One immediate effect of adding a dust ruffle and a valance along the side rail of the top bunk is that the beds look smaller and lower.

The new curtained bunkbed is the same size as any bunkbed and will separate, if desired, into two twin-sized beds.

Pretty ruffles don't hide the fact that bunkbeds are hard to make, especially if they must be placed in a corner arrangement. Use of fitted sheets does help. Short-sided bedspreads tailored for bunks help to cover some of the lumpy errors. These spreads are quite boyish in appearance and wouldn't mate very well with the frills. For the girlish look, you might make use of new floral printed contour sheets as covers.

Fresh Colors
Pep Up Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The ladies have risen to the paint bucket—house paint, that is.

It is not even a startling scene these days to see the women folk plastering walls or even on a ladder painting the exterior of the house.

Women have become more home fashion conscious and they want to change their color schemes when the mood strikes. Equipped with a color wheel from a paint shop or art store, they can choose a hue that may give a room that desirable new look.

If a room is very large, the aim is to make it cozy and more intimate. Darker colors will do that as they absorb light and make the area seem smaller. Light colors reflect more light and make areas seem larger. They are best for small rooms.

Painting woodwork the same color as the walls can add spaciousness to a room. If the room is large it will look more decorative with woodwork painted a different color from walls. A low ceiling may be made to look higher if it is painted a pale color or white. A color deeper than the walls may make a ceiling seem lower.

Sullivan Bar, Dress High In Acclaim of Judge Bruhn

Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn, former Ulster County judge and judge of the Children's Court, now holding his first trial term in Sullivan County, has been widely praised by the Sullivan County Bar, Justice Bruhn was elevated to the Supreme Court bench last January to fill a vacancy created by the election of Justice Sydney F. Foster to the State Court of Appeals last November.

Commenting on the conduct of the April trial term of Supreme Court in Sullivan County the Monticello "Evening News" said:

"Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn is a quiet, mild-mannered and hardworking man. As he goes further into the April half of the spring term at Monticello, he more and more reminds older court observers of Justice Francis Bergen of Albany. Justice Bergen now heads the Appellate Division, Third Department. Both men have the faculty of letting litigating attorneys go just so far; then the axe falls, and there's no more of it."

The "News" article reviews Justice Bruhn's "good background for his judicial position" and recites his years of private practice and his public office career as well as his educational background at Union College, Albany Law School and extra study at Yale University.

Formerly two justices had been assigned to the April term in Sullivan County but elevation of Justice Donald S. Taylor to the Appellate Division made it impossible for him to assist Justice Bruhn at the term.

In discussing the heavy court calendar in the Third District, Justice Bruhn told the Sullivan County Bar that "one thing that impresses me is that attorneys and judges give attention to reducing calendars," he told the attorneys one thing they could do to speed trials is "to have cases ready for trial when reached."

The "News" item reports: "From reports at Monticello, the bench is fortunate to get a man of Justice Bruhn's personality and ability. Attorneys also remark on his knowledge of the law. Incidentally, the justice, who was born Oct. 17, 1908, is a brother of Frederick (Fritz) Bruhn of Kingston, a court stenographer who has been in Monticello for several terms."

More Science Winners Tell Of Exhibits
School 2 in Kingston will be represented at the Mid-Hudson School Study Council Science Fair in New Paltz, by six fourth, fifth and sixth grade students. Today's article, sixth in the current series, will cover the successful entrants from School 2. Susan Klein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Klein; Carolyn Emmick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Emmick; Patricia Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noble; John Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brandt; Steven Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Allen; and William Henry Kidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Durrell Kidd will carry the banner of School 2 into the New Paltz competition Friday, May 12.

A group project prepared by three sixth grade girls won top honors in that grade at School 2 in the recent local judging. Susan Klein, Patricia Noble and Carolyn Emmick combined their talents to carry off the blue ribbon for a display on making water pure. All three girls gave credit for the idea to a classroom science book that they read. The clay and model houses that the trio used in their display were purchased according to the girls, while their homes supplied the wood and other materials they used.

Another group project took honors in the fifth grade. This time two boys put their heads together and came up with the winning exhibit. John Brandt and Steven Allen will journey to New Paltz with their award winning fire alarm. As was the case with the sixth grade winners both boys credit the idea for their project to activities in class. Both lads also reported the material they used in their display was found in school and around the house.

Top honors in the fourth grade at School 2 went to 11-year-old William Kidd for a "diving doll." The "diving doll" project came about as a result of a classroom discussion and a book that he read. He reported that the material used in his project was an exhibit case from around the house.

The six boys and girls will join their counterparts from the other elementary schools in the Mid-Hudson area for the final competition next month at the State University College of Education, New Paltz.

The seventh article in the current series on the local Science Fair winners will review the successful exhibitors at School 8 in Kingston.

Probation Officer To Have Private Conference Room
A conference room for the Ulster County Probation Office will shortly become a reality. For many years the board of supervisors has annually received requests from the chief probation officers for a private room where persons placed on probation may consult in private with the probation officer. Lack of space in the county court room has prevented action.

Joseph A. Gentile, Ulster County auditor and purchasing officer, is now constructing an office in the basement of the court house adjacent to the Civil Defense office. The office, vacated by Gentile, which is a board of supervisor committee room, will be occupied by Ulster County Commissioner of Jurors Ward B. Tongue, who will vacate his present office adjacent to the county judge's office. Chief Probation Officer Charles E. Schultz will have use of that office for interviews on probation.

For many years the office of the probation officer has been in the outer office of the county judge, open to the public and affording no opportunity for private consultation with probationers.

Welfare Cost Up, Number Aided Dips
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Public welfare costs in the state in 1960 rose $12 million, to a total of $577 million, but the number of persons aided declined below 1959 levels.

However, with high unemployment in the state, the caseload has been rising in 1961, the State Social Welfare Department reported Friday.

The department's report came in the wake of legislation passed this year that sets standards under which newcomers to the state may be denied relief if welfare officials find the arrivals came solely to get on relief rolls.

The effectiveness of the law, a compromise between Gov. Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, has not been tested.

When total costs rose in 1960, the department said the average monthly caseload declined to 32,700 persons, or 6,000 below the 1959 average.

By February 1961, the average had risen to 35,400, or 25,000 more than in February 1960.

Of the total expenditure in 1960, local communities contributed $260 million, the state $169 million and the federal government $148 million.

More than half of the recipients were in New York City, where public assistance costs were $28.11 per person. Elsewhere in the state, the costs averaged $13.36 per person.

Hollywood News, Views
By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Academy aftermath—

To most TV viewers, the Oscar show is like watching political conventions; you have to sit through a lot of dullness for the reward of a few dramatic moments.

Monday night's cast stretched two hours and a quarter, far past the yawning hours for Eastern viewers. Even the masterful Bob Hope couldn't keep the show alive for the full route.

Minor Awards Dull
The major trouble is the minor awards. No doubt those craftsman are deserving of honors, but it is necessary before a nationwide audience.

If the academy should ask me — it hasn't — here's how I would run the 1962 Oscar show: The program would begin with the emcee, preferably Hope, announcing: "The following awards were given out before we went on the air." The lucky winners of technical awards would appear onstage for their bows.

Now the show starts. It would move swiftly to the awards everyone is interested in, interspersed with entertainment of the kind that would not be seen on the Ed Sullivan Show.

The major nominations would be introduced by film clips of the actual performances. This was done in the past and it seems a good device to heighten interest and suspense.

90 Minutes Maximum
The presenters of awards would be the great names of Hollywood's past and present, not starlets and TV personalities.

The show would be over in 90 minutes—90 at the most.

All this is pretty revolutionary, of course, if not subversive. You can bet that the academy will continue on its bumbling way. Next year the show may go 2½ hours. After all, they need time to space out all those commercials.

Sullivan Bar, Press High In Acclaim of Judge Bruhn

Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn, former Ulster County judge and judge of the Children's Court, now holding his first trial term in Sullivan County, has been widely praised by the Sullivan County Bar, Justice Bruhn was elevated to the Supreme Court bench last January to fill a vacancy created by the election of Justice Sydney F. Foster to the State Court of Appeals last November. Commenting on the conduct of the April trial term of Supreme Court in Sullivan County, the Monticello "Evening News" says:

"Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn is a quiet mild-mannered and hardworking man. As he goes further into the April trial term at Monticello, he more and more reveals older court observers of Justice Francis Bergen of Albany. Justice Bergen now heads the Appellate Division, Third Department. Both men have the faculty of letting litigating attorneys go just so far; then the axe falls, and there's no more of it."

The "News" article reviews Justice Bruhn's "good background for his judicial position" and recites his years of private practice and his public office career as well as his educational background at Union College, Albany Law School and extra study at Yale University. Formerly two justices had been assigned to the April term in Sullivan County but elevation of Justice Donald S. Taylor to the Appellate Division made it impossible for him to assist Justice Bruhn at the term. In discussing the heavy court calendar in the Third District, Justice Bruhn told the Sullivan County Bar that "one thing that impresses me is that attorneys and judges give attention to reducing calendars," he told the attorneys one thing they could do to speed trials is "to have cases ready for trial when reached."

The "News" item reports: "From reports at Monticello, the bench is fortunate to get a man of Justice Bruhn's personality and ability. Attorneys also remark on his knowledge of the law. Incidentally the justice, who was born Oct. 17, 1908, is a brother of Frederick (Fritz) Bruhn of Kingston, a court stenographer who has been in Monticello for several terms."

More Science Winners Tell Of Exhibits

School 2 in Kingston will be represented at the Mid-Hudson School Study Council Science Fair in New Paltz by six fourth, fifth and sixth grade students. Today's article, sixth in the current series, will cover the successful entrants from School 2. Susan Klein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Klein; Carolyn Emmick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Emmick; Patricia Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Noble; John Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brandt; Steven Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Allen; and William Henry Kidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Durell Kidd will carry the banner of School 2 into the New Paltz competition Friday, May 12.

A group project prepared by three sixth grade girls won top honors in that grade at School 2 in the recent local judging. Susan Klein, Patricia Noble and Carolyn Emmick combined their talents to carry off the blue ribbon for a display on making water pure. All three girls gave credit for the idea to a classroom science book that they read. The clay and model houses that the trio used in their display were purchased according to the girls, while their homes supplied the wood and other materials they used.

Another group project took honors in the fifth grade. This time two boys put their heads together and came up with the winning exhibit. John Brandt and Steven Allen will journey to New Paltz with their award winning fire alarm. As was the case with the sixth grade winners both boys credit the idea for their project to activities in class. Both lads also reported the material they used in their display was found in school and around the house.

Top honors in the fourth grade at School 2 went to 11-year-old William Kidd for a "diving doll." The "diving doll" project came about as a result of a classroom discussion and a book that he read. He reported that the material used in his award winning exhibit came from around the house.

The six boys and girls will join their counterparts from the other elementary schools in the Mid-Hudson area for the final competition next month at the State University College of Education, New Paltz.

The seventh article in the current series on the local Science Fair winners will review the successful exhibitors at School 8 in Kingston.

Probation Officer To Have Private Conference Room

A conference room for the Ulster County Probation Office will shortly become a reality. For many years the board of supervisors has annually received requests from the chief probation officers for a private room where persons placed on probation may consult in private with the probation officer. Lack of space in the county court room has prevented action.

Joseph A. Gentile, Ulster County auditor and purchasing officer, is now constructing an office in the basement of the court house adjacent to the Civil Defense office to which he will move his office. The office vacated by Gentile, which is a board of supervision committee room, will be occupied by Ulster County Commissioner of Jurors Ward B. Tongue, who will vacate his present office adjacent to the county judge's office. Chief Probation Officer Charles E. Schultz will have use of that office for interviews on probation.

For many years the office of the probation officer has been in the outer office of the county judge, open to the public and affording no opportunity for private consultation with probationers.

The session will include Joseph Sullivan, city historian; Ira Warren, county historian; and representatives of 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York National Guard; the American Association of University Women of Kingston; Kingston Junior League; Friends of the Senate House, and Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U. S. N., retired, a trustee of the Senate House Association.

The presenters of awards would be the great names of Hollywood's past and present, not starlets and TV personalities.

The show would be over in 60 minutes—90 at the most.

All this is pretty revolutionary, of course, if not subversive. You can bet that the academy will continue on its bumbling way. Next year the show may go 2 1/2 hours. After all, they need time to space out all those commercials.

HOME DEMONSTRATION SPRING SHOW — Projects which will be taught to members of the Extension Service during 1961-62 were put on exhibit at the annual Home Demonstration Spring Rally held Friday, April 14, in municipal

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, submits the following article on the topic, "Only 24 Hours a Day."

Twenty-four hours a day — one resource given all men daily — and used differently by all men. Will you make good use of our time today? Tomorrow? To answer that question you must know what it is you're really trying to do.

Let's imagine that a car has just pulled up in front of your house. Someone is dropping by for coffee. Dollars to doughnuts before she leaves you'll apologize for the scattered toys, the pile of unironed clean clothes, or the dust on the table.

Don't feel guilty about work that's incomplete. No one expects you to have everything done all of the time. If your home were a business, you'd want work to be going on — not done. Business people worry when there's nothing to do.

Miss Elizabeth Wiegand, a professor at Cornell University College of Home Economics, is concerned that homemakers expect too much of themselves. They want everything done — and done well.

A daily routine. A housekeeping schedule. That's something most of us would like, but no one has to offer. Each homemaker must develop her own, but these suggestions from Miss Wiegand can help.

Develop a flexible plan. If you schedule every minute, you'll be off-schedule before you know it. You can estimate how long it will take to do something — wash the dishes, make the beds, and vacuum the living room — but not the things you do less often. And you can't schedule the unexpected, just anticipate it.

Divide big jobs into bite-size pieces. For example, rather than plan to clean the kitchen, plan to clean the range, or a wall, or a cupboard.

Give different jobs a priority. Decide which things have to be done, which should be done, and which you'd just like to do.

Tackle them in that order. Don't spend the day dreading something you can do in a matter of minutes. Do it, and enjoy the other activities on the day's calendar.

Be pleased by what you accomplish — rather than disturbed by what remains to be done. Husbands, sons, and daughters prefer happy homemakers to spotless homes.

Don't let the little things turn you into a housekeeper — rather than a homemaker, wife, and mother.

UNABLE TO USE A GIFT TICKET

Q. I would like your opinion on the following matter: Along with several other women in my community, I have volunteered to do typing for a charitable organization, two days a week. Once a year, the director of the organization gives a dinner for the volunteer workers to show her appreciation. This year, instead of the dinner, she bought each one of us a ticket to one of the hit shows for a certain night. Two days before the play, I came down with a bad virus and was unable to go to the show. I gave my ticket to my sister and she went in my place. When the others saw her at the theatre, they, of course, asked where I was and she explained I was home sick and she was taking my place. Several of the women passed remarks that I had no right to give the ticket to my sister, and that if I could not go, I should have given it back to the director to give to someone of her choosing.

I feel very resentful and upset over these remarks and think they were totally uncalled for. As the ticket was given to me, it seems to me that I had a right to give it to someone else, since I could not go. Please let me hear from you.

A. As the tickets were given to the group in appreciation for their work at the organization, your sister, who was not a member of the group, had no right to the ticket. When you found you would be unable to go to the theatre, you should have called the director and explained the situation to her and asked her if she would like the ticket returned to give to someone else. If she said no, then it would have been perfectly all right to give the ticket to your sister.

The Knife as a Pusher
Q. I think the only proper "tool" to use as a pusher when eating, is a small piece of bread or roll. However, my husband says that a knife is also proper and that he sees many people eating in the nicest restaurants, using it. Will you please tell me who is correct?

A. It is permissible to push the fork against the knife, which is held steadily in place to prevent the food that is being taken on

This booklet, for the use of new members, contains a history of the Jaycee organization and traces the growth of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary on both the state and local levels.

Mrs. Diffley will also head this year's nominating committee and she, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Karaffa and Mrs. Gene Adesso, will present the new slate of officers to the general membership at the May meeting.

The president reminded all members that a Jaycee-Jaycee regional meeting is scheduled to be held on April 30 at Deane's in Woodstock. New regional directors will be elected at this time and a large attendance is requested.

Mrs. Robert Gardinier will be chairman of this year's appropriation committee. Last year all funds were used to aid and promote youth and children's programs in the area.

Following the business meeting, a very interesting film on interior decorating was presented by Mr. Van Tassell.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, submits the following article on the topic, "Only 24 Hours a Day."

Twenty-four hours a day — one resource given all men daily — and used differently by all men. Will you make good use of our time today? Tomorrow? To answer that question you must know what it is you're really trying to do.

Let's imagine that a car has just pulled up in front of your house. Someone is dropping by for coffee. Dollars to doughnuts before she leaves you'll apologize for the scattered toys, the pile of unironed clean clothes, or the dust on the table.

Don't feel guilty about work that's incomplete. No one expects you to have everything done all of the time. If your home were a business, you'd want work to be going on — not done. Business people worry when there's nothing to do.

Miss Elizabeth Wiegand, a professor at Cornell University College of Home Economics, is concerned that homemakers expect too much of themselves. They want everything done — and done well.

A daily routine. A housekeeping schedule. That's something most of us would like, but no one has to offer. Each homemaker must develop her own, but these suggestions from Miss Wiegand can help.

Develop a flexible plan. If you schedule every minute, you'll be off-schedule before you know it. You can estimate how long it will take to do some things — wash the dishes, make the beds, and vacuum the living room — but not the things you do less often. And you can't schedule the unexpected, just anticipate it.

Divide big jobs into bite-size pieces. For example, rather than plan to clean the kitchen, plan to clean the range, or a wall, or a cupboard.

Give different jobs a priority. Decide which things have to be done, which should be done, and which you'd just like to do.

Tackle them in that order. Don't spend the day dreading something you can do in a matter of minutes. Do it, and enjoy the other activities on the day's calendar.

Be pleased by what you accomplish — rather than disturbed by what remains to be done. Husbands, sons, and daughters prefer happy homemakers to spotless homes.

Don't let the little things turn you into a housekeeper — rather than a homemaker, wife, and mother.

UNABLE TO USE A GIFT TICKET

Q I would like your opinion on the following matter: Along with several other women in my community, I have volunteered to do typing for a charitable organization, two days a week. Once a year, the director of the organization gives a dinner for the volunteer workers to show her appreciation. This year, instead of the dinner, she bought each one of us a ticket to one of the hit shows for a certain night. Two days before the play, I came down with a bad virus and was unable to go to the show. I gave my ticket to my sister and she went in my place.

When the others saw her at the theatre, they, of course, asked where I was and she explained I was home sick and she was taking my place. Several of the women passed remarks that I had no right to give the ticket to my sister, and that if I could not go, I should have given it back to the director to give to someone of her choosing.

I feel very resentful and upset over these remarks and think they were totally uncalled for. As the ticket was given to me, it seems to me that I had a right to give it to someone else, since I could not go. Please let me hear from you.

A As the tickets were given to the group in appreciation for their work at the organization, your sister, who was not a member of the group, had no right to the ticket. When you found you would be unable to go to the theater, you should have called the director and explained the situation to her and asked her if she would like the ticket returned to give to someone else. If she said no, then it would have been perfectly all right to give the ticket to your sister.

The Knife as a Pusher

Q I think the only proper "tool" to use as a pusher when eating, is a small piece of bread or roll. However, my husband says that a knife is also proper and that he sees many people eating in the nicest restaurants, using it. Will you please tell me who is correct?

A It is permissible to push the fork against the knife, which is held steadily in place to prevent the food that is being taken on

Be pleased by what you accomplish — rather than disturbed by what remains to be done. Husbands, sons, and daughters prefer happy homemakers to spotless homes. Don't let the little things turn you into a housekeeper — rather than a homemaker, wife, and mother.

Moon's 7th HR Sparks Dodgers To 5-3 Decision

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 5-3 Friday night to knock the Reds out of undisputed possession of first place and throw the National League into a four-way tie for the top.

St. Louis, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati each owns a 5-4 record with the Dodgers only 11 percentage points behind at six victories and five defeats. And to make it even tighter, the sixth place Chicago Cubs, after defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, were only half a game off the pace.

These were the only games played in the National League. Rain forced postponement of the game in San Francisco between the Cards and Giants, and in Pittsburgh between the Milwaukee Braves and Pirates.

Two More Hits

Wally Moon, the hottest hitter in the National League, once again sparked the Dodgers. He hit his seventh homer of the season and added a single. Johnny Roseboro also chipped in with a homer to hang a defeat upon second day Jay Hook of the Reds.

Second baseman Don Zimmer figured in all the Cubs' scoring. In the first inning he singled and scored on Billy Williams' double. In the sixth he tallied on Ron Santo's double. In the seventh, Philadelphia outfielder Tony Curry muffed his fly ball for a three base error enabling Al Heist to score the winning run.

Don Cardwell, with the help of Don Elston in the seventh, was the winner. Robin Roberts, who deserved a better fate, lost his third of the year.

Toronto Scores 4th Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs, who chalked up 32 shutouts for an International League record in their runaway pennant victory last season, already have begun to act as if they'll wipe out that mark.

When Toronto's Chuck Hickman blanked Jersey City 8-0 on five hits last night it was the Leafs' second shutout victory in five games and Toronto's fourth straight triumph.

The defending champions, however, only moved into third place of the standings ahead of the Jersey City Cubs. The Columbus Jets and Richmond Virginians remained undefeated in three games each as Columbus blanked Rochester 3-0 behind lefty Bob Veale and the Vees powered their way to a 9-4 victory over Syracuse. San Juan won last night's other game, beating Buffalo 3-1 on Jim Beauchamp's eighth - inning 3 - run homer.

Veale gave an impressive pitching job for Columbus in a rain-marred opener at Rochester. He fanned eleven and gave only one walk and five hits.

Richmond's power spoiled the first International League game in Syracuse in six years for 8,021 fans. The Vees belted starter Bob Porterfield for 10 hits and five runs, including homers by Don Look and Pedro Gonzalez in seven innings, then got three more, two on a homer by Ed Linz, in the eighth.

Buffalo's Ruben Gomez, a former National League pitcher, checked San Juan with three hits and had a 1-0 lead in the eighth. Then Reinaldo Oliver singled, Artie Burnett walked and Beauchamp broke up the game with his homer.

Mickey Wright Has Lead in Tourney

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Mickey Wright, the tall Dallas sharpshooter, led the 54-hole Babe Zaharias Open into its second round today with a three-under-par 70.

Miss Wright, a two-tournament winner on the women's tour this year, fashioned the fine first round score Friday with some terrific putting. Her top shot was an eagle on the eleventh hole where she sank a 15-footer.

In close pursuit was Ruth Jensen, the Seattle blonde, who had a 71, while Kathy Whitworth of Jal. N.M., and Mary Lane Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., were tied for third place at 72.

It Was Jerry Gruberg With That 612 Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was Jerry Gruberg, not Jerry Kaplan, who rolled that 612 series in the Good Neighbor League this week.

Gruberg compiled the 612 with games of 201, 229 and 132. This correction is presented with great pleasure by the sports department which trusts that the kiddies never did doubt dad's word that he had rolled 612 on Tuesday night.

Mantle Leads New York to Win Over Baltimore

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK And Detroit swept into a first place tie in the American League Friday as the Yankees and Tigers each extended their winning streaks to five straight, after opening day defeats.

The Yankees defeated Baltimore 4-2, the Orioles suffering their fifth loss in six starts. The Tigers lapped Los Angeles 9-1 for the Angels' fifth straight defeat.

Washington knocked Minnesota out of the league lead, ruining the Twins' home opener with a 5-3 triumph. Kansas City also lost its home opener, 5-3, to Cleveland. Chicago nipped Boston 3-2.

Mickey Mantle walloped his fourth home run in four games and Whitey Ford pitched his second victory this week as the Yankees won their fifth straight after a losing debut in Yankee Stadium. Mantle's homer came with a runner on base in the third inning off Steve Barber who had pitched the only Oriole victory to date. Bobby Richardson began the inning with a single, took second on an error and scored on a hit by Hector Lopez.

Loses Shutout

Ford lost his chance for a second straight shutout in the fifth when Dave Philley doubled home two runs after Earl Robinson had walked and Marv Breeding had hit a two-bagger.

The Tigers won their fifth straight and the Angels lost their fifth in a row. Tiger southpaw Don Mossi spaced eight Los Angeles hits for his second victory. Rocky Colavito's three-run homer in the first, and Norm Cash's two-run double in the third were the key blows that spelled the second defeat of the year for Jerry Casale.

Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth to knock the Twins out of first place. A crowd of 24,606 looked on.

Rookie Joe McClain was the winner, although he needed ninth inning help from Dave Sisler. The Senators pounced on relief pitcher Ray Moore for their winning run in the top of the ninth. Billy Klaus and Cool Veal singled and Klaus scored on Fete Daigle's single. McClain then laid down a sacrifice bunt to score Veal.

Tribe Rallies

Cleveland, with Vic Power providing the punch and Bob Allen the pitching, came from behind to defeat Kansas City. The Indians trailed 3-2 in the eighth when Power tripled to score Tito Francona. Power then scored the winning run when Woody Held grounded out. Allen replaced starter Jim Grant in the seventh and held the A's scoreless.

Minnie Mino's sacrifice fly in the eighth sent Luis Aparicio home with the winning run as Cal McLish registered his first victory for the White Sox. Nellie Fox drove in the first two Chicago runs with a two-run single in the third. Pete Runnels and Gary Geiger drove in the Boston runs.

Saugerties Club's Guest to Speak On Birds of Prey

Dr. Heinz Meng, a noted ornithologist and associate professor at the State University College of Education, New Paltz will be the guest speaker at the annual Saugerties Fish and Game Club dinner Wednesday 7:30 p. m. at The Flamingo Restaurant.

His topic will be on birds of prey and falconry, according to W. Burt Pettinger, dinner co-chairman.

Dr. Meng's hobby is raising and training falcons, Pettinger said. A graduate assistant at Cornell University, Dr. Meng received his BA and PhD degrees in 1943 and 1951. He is now an associate professor in natural science at New Paltz and teaches field biology, general biology and ornithology. He is a member of the National Audubon Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The deadline for dinner reservations is Monday 5 p. m. Vincent Berzal, game club president said today. Those wishing to make reservations may call Berzal at Saugerties Sales and Service. Roast beef will be served.

Derby Hopeful Wins Prep Race

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A barometer that has predicted three of the past four Kentucky Derby winners — Keeneland's Fore-runner Purse—today pointed at Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty.

The 3-year-old son of Blue Prince-Sixpence 2nd led all the way Friday and took an easy two-length victory over J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol. Clark and Radovich's Ronnie's Ace was third, 1 1/4 lengths back.

The favorite in the seven-furlong Derby prep, Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, threatened only before the turn for home. He then faded and finished fourth in a field of six Derby eligibles.

The fore-runner is a more prestigious race than its $7,500 purse indicates because of its unique reputation.

Of its past four winners, three have gone on to win the run for the roses at Churchill Downs.

Tompson won last year's fore-runner and was the Derby favorite, but threw a shoe during the race and Venetian Way won.

NewPaltz, Rondout Score Victories

Getting in their licks before the opening of the UCAL season next Friday, New Paltz Central came from behind to nip Valley Central, 6-5, and Rondout Valley broke into the victory column with a 12-7 triumph over Ellenville in scholastic tilts yesterday.

Barney Hansen was the hero for the Huguenots at the New Paltz diamond. His pinch hit single in the seventh frame scored the tying and winning runs to climax a good comeback for Joe Heloski's club. The Huguenots trailed, 5-1, after four frames but they scored in the last three innings to win the verdict.

Bill Lohman went the distance for New Paltz. He gave up seven hits and walked nine but he was tough in the clutch.

Rondout tallied seven times in a wild second inning and then topped visiting Ellenville at the Marlborough school diamond. Junior Ralph Gallagher went the distance for the Ganders. He was in frequent hot water but his mates helped him with some robust batting.

Jim Brush had a single, double and triple to pace the winners to their first victory in three starts.

Moon's 7th HR Sparks Dodgers To 5-3 Decision

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 5-3 Friday night to knock the Reds out of undisputed possession of first place and throw the National League into a four-way tie for the top.

St. Louis, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati each owns a 5-4 record with the Dodgers only 11 percentage points behind at six victories and five defeats. And to make it even tighter, the sixth place Chicago Cubs, after defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, were only half a game off the pace.

These were the only games played in the National League. Rain forced postponement of the game in San Francisco between the Cards and Giants, and in Pittsburgh between the Milwaukee Braves and Pirates.

Two More Hits

Wally Moon, the hottest hitter in the National League, once again sparked the Dodgers. He hit his seventh homer of the season and added a single. Johnny Roseboro also chipped in with a homer to hang a defeat upon young Jay Hook of the Reds.

Second baseman Don Zimmer figured in all the Cubs' scoring. In the first inning he singled and scored on Billy Williams' double. In the sixth, he tallied on Ron Santo's double. In the seventh, Philadelphia outfielder Tony Cury muffed his fly ball for a three base error enabling Al Heist to score the winning run.

Don Cardwell, with the help of Don Elston in the seventh, was the winner. Robin Roberts, who deserved a better fate, lost his third of the year.

Toronto Scores 4th Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs, who chalked up 32 shutouts for an International League record in their runaway pennant victory last season, already have begun to act as if they'll wipe out that mark.

When Toronto's Chuck Hickman blanked Jersey City 8-0 on five hits last night it was the Leafs' second shutout victory in five games and Toronto's fourth straight triumph.

The defending champions, however, only moved into third place of the standings ahead of the Jays. The Columbus Jets and Richmond Virginians remained undefeated in three games each as Columbus blanked Rochester 3-0 behind lefty Bob Veale and the Vees powered their way to a 9-4 victory over Syracuse. San Juan won last night's other game, beating Buffalo 3-1 on Jim Beauchamp's eighth-inning 3-run homer.

Veale gave an impressive pitching job for Columbus in a rain-marred opener at Rochester. He earned eleven and gave only one walk and five hits.

Richmond's power spoiled the first International League game in Syracuse in six years for 8:02. The Vees belted starter Bob Porterfield for 10 hits and five runs, including homers by Don Lock and Pedro Gonzalez in seven innings, then got three more, two on a homer by Ed Linz, in the eighth.

Buffalo's Ruben Gomez, a former National League, checked San Juan with three hits and had a 1-0 lead in the eighth. Then Reinaldo Oliver singled, Arlie Burnett walked and Beauchamp broke up the game with his homer.

Mickey Wright Has Lead in Tourney

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Mickey Wright, the tall Dallas sharpshooter, led the 54-hole Babe Zaharias Open into its second round today with a three-under-par 70.

Miss Wright, a two-tournament winner on the women's tour this year, fashioned the fine first round score Friday with some terrific putting. Her top shot was an eagle on the eleventh hole where she sank a 15-footer.

In close pursuit was Ruth Jensen, the Seattle blonde, who had a 71, while Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., and Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., were tied for third place at 72.

It Was Jerry Gruberg With That 612 Series

It was Jerry Gruberg, not Jerry Kaplan, who rolled that 612 series in the Good Neighbor League this week.

Gruberg compiled the 612 with games of 201, 229 and 182. This correction is presented with great pleasure by the sports department which trusts that the kiddies never did doubt dad's word that he had rolled 612 on Tuesday night.

Mantle Leads

New York to Win Over Baltimore

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK And Detroit swept into a first place tie in the American League Friday as the Yankees and Tigers each extended their winning streaks to five straight, after opening day defeats.

The Yankees defeated Baltimore 4-2, the Orioles suffering their fifth loss in six starts. The Tigers lapped Los Angeles 9-1 for the Angels' fifth straight defeat.

Washington knocked Minnesota out of the league lead, ruining the Twins' home opener with a 5-3 triumph. Kansas City also lost its home opener, 5-3, to Cleveland. Chicago nipped Boston 3-2. Mickey Mantle walloped his fourth home run in four games and Whitey Ford pitched his second victory this week as the Yankees won their fifth straight after a losing debut in Yankee Stadium. Mantle's homer came with a runner on base in the third inning off Steve Barber who had pitched the only Oriole victory to date. Bobby Richardson began the inning with a single, took second on an error and scored on a hit by Hector Lopez.

Losses Shutout

Ford lost his chance for a second straight shutout in the fifth when Dave Philley doubled home two runs after Earl Robinson had walked and Marv Breeding had hit a two-bagger.

The Tigers won their fifth straight and the Angels lost their fifth in a row. Tiger southpaw Don Mossi spaced eight Los Angeles hits for his second victory. Rocky Colavito's three-run homer in the first, and Norm Cash's two-run double in the third were the key blows that spelled the second defeat of the year for Jerry Casale.

Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth to knock the Twins out of first place. A crowd of 24,600 looked on.

Rookie Joe McClain was the winner, although he needed ninth inning help from Dave Sisler. The Senators pounced on relief pitcher Ray Moore for their winning runs in the top of the ninth. Billy Klaus and Gabe Vial singled and Klaus scored on Fete Daley's single. McClain then laid down a sacrifice bunt to score Vial.

Tribe Rallies

Cleveland, with Vic Power providing the punch and Bob Allen the pitching, came from behind to defeat Kansas City. The Indians trailed 3-2 in the eighth when Power tripled to score Tito Francona. Power then scored the winning run when Woody Held grounded out. Allen replaced starter Jim Grant in the seventh and held the A's scoreless.

Minnie Mino's sacrifice fly in the eighth sent Luis Aparicio home with the winning run as Cal McLish registered his first victory for the White Sox. Nellie Fox drove in the first two Chicago runs with a two-run single in the third. Pete Runnels and Gary Geller drove in the Boston runs.

Saugerties Club's Guest to Speak On Birds of Prey

Dr. Heinz Meng, a noted ornithologist and associate professor at the State University College of Education, New Paltz will be the guest speaker at the annual Saugerties Fish and Game Club dinner Wednesday 7:30 p. m. at The Flamingo Restaurant.

His topic will be on birds of prey and alcaury, according to W. Burt Pettinger, dinner co-chairman.

Dr. Meng's hobby is raising and training falcons, Pettinger said. A graduate assistant at Cornell University, Dr. Meng received his BA and PhD degrees in 1943 and 1951. He is now an associate professor in natural science at New Paltz and teaches field biology, general biology and ornithology. He is a member of the National Audubon Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The deadline for dinner reservations is Monday 5 p. m. Vincent Berzal, game club president said today. Those wishing to make reservations may call Berzal at Saugerties Sales and Service. Roast beef will be served.

Derby Hopeful Wins Prep Race

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A barometer that has predicted three of the past four Kentucky Derby winners — Keeneland's Forerunner Purse—today pointed at Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty.

The 3-year-old son of Blue Prince-Sixpence 2nd led all the way Friday and took an easy two-length victory over J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol. Clark and Radovich's Ronnie's Ace was third, 1 1/2 lengths back.

The favorite in the seven-furlong Derby prep, Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, threatened only before the turn for home. He then faded and finished fourth in a field of six Derby eligibles.

The forerunner is a more prestigious race than its $7,500 purse indicates because of its unique reputation.

Of its past four winners, three have gone on to win the run for their roses at Churchill Downs. Tompon won last year's forerunner and was the Derby favorite, but threw a shoe during the race and Venetian Way won.

New Paltz, Rondout Score Victories

Getting in their licks before the opening of the UCL season next Friday, New Paltz Central came from behind to nip Valley Central, 6-5, and Rondout Valley broke into the victory column with a 12-7 triumph over Ellenville in scholastic tilts yesterday.

Barney Hansen was the hero for the Huguenots at the New Paltz diamond. His pinch hit single in the seventh frame scored the tying and winning runs to climax a good comeback for Joe Heloski's club. The Huguenots trailed, 5-1, after four frames but they scored in the last three innings to win the verdict.

Bill Lohman went the distance for New Paltz. He gave up seven hits and walked nine but he was tough in the clutch.

Rondout tallied seven times in a wild second inning and then topped visiting Ellenville at the Marletown school diamond. Junior Ralph Gallagher went the distance for the Rangers. He was in frequent hot water but his mates helped him with some robust batting.

Jim Brush had a single, double and triple to pace the winners to their first victory in three starts.

Safety Awards Are

the campaign without lost-time accidents.

Five 5-Year Awards will be presented also to Mid-Hudson Oil Co., Inc., and James L. Taylor Manufacturing Co. of Poughkeepsie.

Twenty-six 100 per cent awards will be presented and 3 Certificates of Achievement.

Explain Categories

The Five-Year Awards are special citations presented to each entry who participates accident-free for five or more consecutive years. One-hundred per cent awards are presented to each participant completing the entire campaign accident-free and certificates of achievement are presented to any entry with less than a perfect record but with an accident frequency rate lower than the average accident frequency rate for his group and section.

The Poughkeepsie Area II includes Dutchess and Ulster Counties and shows a total of 12,882,061 man-hours worked during the 12-week campaign with 65 accidents and no deaths for an accident frequency rate of 5.04 per million man-hours worked. This compares with 1960 when there was a total of 13,264,591 man-hours worked with 63 accidents and no deaths for an accident frequency rate of 4.74 per million man-hours worked. The Poughkeepsie area accident frequency rate of 5.04 is less than the State rate of 5.79 which is an all-time low.

Over 450,000 employees across the state worked a total of 203,082,679 man-hours during the campaign. There were 1,441 lost time accidents this year as compared to 1,346 last year. The effectiveness and the results of these annual campaigns have more than proven their worth. In the 36-year history of the program, the number of industrial accidents per million man-hours worked has dropped from 22 to 5.79.

Firms entering the safety campaign conducted during the first quarter of each year are grouped according to size and type of employment thus giving small firms as well as large ones an equal chance to win an award. The annual accident prevention campaign which is operated as a public service by Associated Industries of New York State, Inc. and Mid-Hudson Industrial Association as co-sponsors is open to all types of occupations. The campaign is supervised by a 21-man safety committee comprised of safety directors of various firms throughout the state.

Officials Named

Chairman of the group is Claude T. Bardo, Safety Director of Aluminum Company of America; G. Stuart Mansfield, director of Employee Benefits of Western Printing & Lithographing Co., Poughkeepsie, and Seymour B. Fleming, safety engineer of the New York Trap Rock Corp., West Nyack, representing the Hudson Valley on the committee.

Opposes Interference

Their document suggested, further, that Washington's plan be augmented by Brazil's own "Operation Pan America," a plan originated by former Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek.

In their joint declaration of principles, Quadros and Frondizi pledged firm support of "Western and Christian" principles. Though the 700-word communique never mentioned communism by name, it aligned the two big nations against alien interference in the hemisphere — an indirect reference to the revolt-torn affairs in Cuba.

States and the countries of the Western Hemisphere, including the United States, act to stop "the bloodbath in Cuba," the broadcast said.

It had told earlier of new small landings made in Cuba, but no other source confirmed this. Some rebel sources in Miami did say, however, that between 500 and 1,500 guerrillas were headed for Cuba for a new invasion assault. A dispatch from Havana described the Cuban capital as a city of fear and suspicion. It said a new wave of arrests and detentions reached into almost every family. Suspects jammed swollen jails and living conditions were described as growing worse.

The New York Times quoted a diplomatic source in Washington as saying Maj. Ernesto Guevara, one of Castro's top aides, was seriously wounded in the head earlier this week. The Times said the information reached Washington from a diplomatic source in Havana.

The diplomatic source said a neurosurgeon was sent to a provincial hospital where Guevara allegedly was taken. Guevara, 32, is Cuba's economic czar.

These included two new arterial routes in Niagara Falls, a new arterial in Tonawanda, relocation of a part of the proposed Southern Expressway in Erie County; a new highway, the Gowanda Expressway, in Erie County, and a new section of state highway in Port Chester.

In most instances, the governor said, additional study was needed before final decisions could be made.

Deputies Probe Abandoned Car Near Eddyville

The mysterious case of a 1952 sedan, which was abandoned after being sliced off a utility pole on the Mountain Road, Eddyville, sometime Friday afternoon, is under investigation by the Ulster County sheriff's office.

The car, heavily damaged, was discovered about 4:30 p. m. and reported to the sheriff's office which dispatched Deputies Charles Dullea and Thomas Mayonne to the scene.

A check of the license plate disclosed the car is owned by Delores Griffin, of Hurley.

Undersheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg said today the case still is under investigation.

Six-Year-Old Boy Is Still Critical; Struck by Vehicle

Reports from Kingston Hospital today described the condition of Dennis Dye, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dye, who resides in the Sweet Meadow section of the Town of Kingston, as still critical.

A first grade student at Lake Katrine School, the boy suffered a cerebral concussion, fracture of the upper right arm and possible internal injuries when struck by a car while waiting for a school bus Friday morning, according to Kingston troopers.

Trooper Joseph Ventriglia said five children were waiting for the bus on the shoulder of Sawkill road near Melissa Lane, Sweet Meadows, when the Dye boy was struck by the left front of a 1957 sedan operated by Joseph Byczek, 26, of Tanglewood Road, West Hurley.

Byczek and his wife, Sylvia, were on their way to work at the time of the mishap.

Day of Prayer For Cuba Designated

Francis Cardinal Spellman designated Sunday as a Day of Prayer for Cuba in the Archdiocese of New York.

Part of his statement to be read at all Masses in St. Patrick's Cathedral on Sunday is as follows:

"We call on all our devoted clergy, religious and faithful of the Archdiocese to offer Masses and Holy Communion for the people of Cuba, to make this Sunday, a Day of Prayer for Cuba, for its freedom and peace. We pray Almighty God to strengthen the faith and courage of the Cuban people; to confirm them in their age-old ideals; to buttress their determination to betray to an alien imperialism and the intensified persecution of their ancient religion."

Area Controlled Bomarc Missile Destroys Target

STEWART AFB, N. Y.—The long line of grey, sleek 47-foot Bomarc A missile added the 42nd successful SAGE controlled launching to its roster Friday when the Air Defense Command's weapon intercepted and destroyed a QF-SO Drone jet at 35,000 feet, 125 miles over the Gulf of Mexico on the Eglin Gulf Test Range, it was reported today.

The launching from Santa Rosa Island, near Fort Walton Beach, Fla., and intercept were controlled by the Montgomery Air Defense Sector (SAGE) computers here.

The drone target, simulating an enemy attacker heading toward the southeastern coast of the United States, took evasive action.

The Bomarc compensated for this and successfully completed the intercept under the watchful eyes of the SAGE control crew.

The missile for Friday's firing was prepared by crews of the 4751st Air Defense Wing (missile), Hurlburt Field, Fla. Operational crews of ADC are on duty at five Bomarc A Squadrons in the northeastern United States. These crews will annually return to the Santa Rosa Island training site and the Montgomery Direction Center to brush up on tactics and techniques.

The Bomarc B, which is an improved model of the A, is also undergoing testing at the Florida site and will soon be operational at missile sites in the United States after final testing is completed by the Air Force Systems Command.

Search for Plane Widens to Include Mid-Hudson Area

The search for a missing single engine Beechcraft not heard from since last Sunday, widened to include the lower Hudson Valley, according to Major Sidney Lane, commander of Catskill Mountain Group, Civil Air Patrol.

Major Lane said the area CAP group operating out of Dutchess County Airport, Poughkeepsie was searching an area below Port Jervis for the missing aircraft.

The red and white aircraft with markings TGDOW has two occupants, Manfred Caplowitz, the pilot and Alfredo Tarbush, and took off Sunday 2:30 a. m. from Westchester County Airport. The destination was listed as Guatemala, Major Lane said.

Fire Fighters Quell Three Fires in City

Firemen responded to three calls for minor fires Friday, two of them involving leaves and rubbish and the third rubbish in an incinerator in a building adjoining the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Firemen extinguished the incinerator fire shortly after 3:10 p. m. under direction of Deputy Chief Julius L. Buchholz.

At 7:01 p. m. firemen in command of Deputy Chief George D. Matthews quelled fire that burned in leaves and rubbish at the end of West Chestnut Street. At 8:24 p. m. firemen in charge of Deputy Matthews extinguished a grass fire at Augusta and West Chestnut Streets.

the campaign without lost-time accidents.

Five 5-Year Awards will be presented also to Mid-Hudson Oil Co., Inc., and James L. Taylor Manufacturing Co. of Poughkeepsie.

Twenty-six 100 per cent awards will be presented and 3 Certificates of Achievement.

Explain Categories

The Five-Year Awards are special citations presented to each entry who participates accident-free for five or more consecutive years. One-hundred per cent awards are presented to each participant completing the entire campaign accident-free and certificates of achievement are presented to any entry with less than a perfect record but with an accident frequency rate lower than the average accident frequency rate for his group and section.

The Poughkeepsie Area II includes Dutchess and Ulster Counties and shows a total of 12,882,061 man-hours worked during the 12-week campaign with 65 accidents and no deaths for an accident frequency rate of 5.04 per million man-hours worked. This compares with 1960 when there was a total of 13,264,591 man-hours worked with 63 accidents and no deaths for an accident frequency rate of 4.74 per million man-hours worked. The Poughkeepsie area accident frequency rate of 5.04 is less than the State rate of 5.79 which is an all-time low.

Over 450,000 employees across the state worked a total of 203,082,679 man-hours during the campaign. There were 1,441 lost time accidents this year as compared to 1,346 last year. The effectiveness and the results of these annual campaigns have more than proven their worth. In the 36-year history of the program, the number of industrial accidents per million man-hours worked has dropped from 22 to 5.79.

Firms entering the safety campaign conducted during the first quarter of each year are grouped according to size and type of employment thus giving small firms as well as large ones an equal chance to win an award. The annual accident prevention campaign which is operated as a public service by Associated Industries of New York State, Inc. and Mid-Hudson Industrial Association as co-sponsor is open to all types of occupations. The campaign is supervised by a 21-man safety committee comprised of safety directors of various firms throughout the state.

Officials Named

Chairman of the group is Claude T. Bardo, Safety Director of Aluminum Company of America; G. Stuart Mansfield, director of Employee Benefits of Western Printing & Lithographing Co., Poughkeepsie; and Seymour B. Fleming, safety engineer of the New York Trap Rock Corp., West Nyack, representing the Hudson Valley on the committee.

Their document suggested, further, that Washington's plan be augmented by Brazil's own "Operation Pan America," a plan originated by former Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek. In their joint declaration of principles, Quadros and Frondizi pledged firm support of "Western and Christian" principles. Though the 700-word communique never mentioned communism by name, it aligned the two big nations against alien interference in the hemisphere — an indirect reference to the revolt-torn affairs in Cuba.

Paul Pender a Solid Favorite To Beat Basilio in Title Bout

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender's slashing left and elusive style make him a 2-1 favorite to keep his limited version of the world middleweight title against Carmen Basilio tonight in a nationally televised (ABC, 10 p.m., Eastern Standard Time) bout from Boston Garden.

It's scheduled for 15 rounds, and both fighters are very cautious about predicting it will end in less than that.

Pender, 30, a former fireman from Brookline, Mass., has boxed more than 100 rounds getting ready for his third defense of a title recognized in Europe, Massachusetts and New York. Much of Pender's sparring time has been devoted to workouts against spartans using Basilio's boxing style. The fight figures to offer a vivid contrast in styles: Pender's superb, stand-up boxing, left and footwork against the damaging left hook Basilio throws out of a crowd, weaving attack. Basilio, 34, a former middleweight and welterweight champ from upstate New York, has won two easy 10-round decisions in a comeback after a pair of brutal maulings at the hands of NBA title holder Gene Fullmer. Among the Pender advantages are age (four years), weight (about five pounds), height (almost five inches) and reach (five inches). Pender expected to weigh in close to the 160 pound limit today, and Basilio said he would be about 155.

A youthful but very animated little lady was enjoying her first visit to church. It was an Episcopal church, and the choir boys and the form of service interested her greatly. But after the sermon had begun her attention was directed from the pulpit to other parts of the house, and in the course of her inspection of things she suddenly discovered the gallery filled with people in the rear of the church.
"Mother," she whispered, excitedly, are those the wicked back there on the shelf?

For an Indian headdress, just cut a strip of corrugated cardboard 2 inches wide and long enough to fit around your head. Fasten this circle with cellophane tape, and paint it an appropriate color. Use white chicken or turkey feathers in a cool dye solution and slip these into the ridges of the cardboard.

Peanut People

With a darning needle and heavy thread, sew peanuts together to form the head, arms, legs and body of peanut people. Use paint or water colors to make the faces, and bits of wool yarn. Fasten with glue, to make the hair. Dress the figures in cloth scraps or crepe paper.

You Can Make Your Own Encyclopedia

Why not make your own encyclopedia? Have you ever had your teacher give you an assignment and did you say to yourself, "Why, I read something on that very subject just last week!" If you had the information at hand right now, it would save a great deal of trouble.

If you make an encyclopedia of your own, it will prove helpful now and in the future.

For your articles, you can clip stories from newspapers and magazines. These articles can be on anything that interests you—travel, science, current events, famous people, nature, animals and everything.

It will be best to use a loose-leaf notebook or scrapbook. Then you can always keep expanding your book. A large size is best—the size of a sheet of typewriter paper or larger. You will want to have one page for your title:

Encyclopedia of Foreign Countries

—for example:
At the top of your first page, in the middle of the line, print a large A. You can place articles on this page whose subject begin with the letter A, such as airplanes, Africa, Asia. Make one initialed page for each letter of the alphabet.

As you gather more material, you will need more sheets for each letter. Paste your articles in columns. A white paste is good for this purpose. Paste only on one side of your sheet.

If you have something printed on both sides of a paper, use photo corners instead of paste. In this way, you can remove the article, read both sides, and replace it in the book. You may have to fold a long article to fit your book, but this can be done neatly with a little patience.

If you prefer, you can use photo corners for all articles, which would be easier to remove if you would want to rearrange your material.

Several of your classmates might want to make encyclopedias too. You will find that each book will be different. You can ask each other, "What does your encyclopedia have on rockets (or Sweden or licorice)?"

—Charlotte Dowdall

Magic Peepholes

By Frances Gorman Risser

Each time the rain clouds blow away
I run outside to see
The peepholes into Fairyland
The storm has left for me.

I peer into the little pools
Of raindrops, and I spy
Small castles, little houses, too,
And small folk, dancing by.

Then as the water drains away
The peepholes close up tight,
But always, I get just a glimpse
Of an enchanting sight!

What's Alive on Planet Venus?

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Both United States and Russian scientists have sent space probes to the planet Venus. The U.S. space shot missed its mark by several million miles. The results of the Russian shot may not be fully known for a while.

Venus is called Morning Star when it rises in the morning just before the sky begins to brighten, and Evening Star when it appears just after twilight.

The ancient Greeks thought that Venus was a different star when it rose in the morning than the one they had seen in the evening so they had two names for it, Phosphorous and Hesperus. Phosphorous is Greek for "Light Bringer" while Hesperus is Greek for evening or western.

In the evening, Venus is

most apt to be the bright star you look at when you say, "Star, star shining bright First star I've seen tonight Wish I may, wish I might Get this wish I make tonight."

This may explain why you don't get your wish—Venus is really not a star! It is a planet. Still Venus is one of the brightest objects in the sky (not counting the moon and sun).

One of the reasons for Venus' great brightness is that its atmosphere is full of white clouds. These clouds may be water vapor, oil smog or dust from the dust storms on that planet.

Since most of earth's clouds are water vapor, this leads some astronomers to think that Venus' clouds are also water vapor. However, since no oxygen and only traces of water vapor have been detected on Venus, other astronomers believe the clouds must be made of dust.

According to Dr. Fred A. Hoyle, the clouds of Venus may be smog from seas of oil.

Large amounts of carbon dioxide have been found in the atmosphere of Venus. This may have gotten there by some of the carbon from seas of oil uniting with oxygen in the air to form carbon dioxide.

A lightning bolt may have ignited these seas of oil causing them to burn until all the oxygen in the air was used up. We know that Venus does have thunder storms, for radio telescopes have picked up static from that planet.

The oil seas of Venus might have produced sugar when it combined with oxygen. This substance could be sugarlike glucose.

The presence of glucose would make it possible for Venus to support life. This life would be yeasts which are the only kind of life that can live without using oxygen (as animals do) or making it (as plants do). Yeasts use up glucose and make more yeast, carbon dioxide and alcohol.

Some astronomers have seen bright spots thrusting through the thick clouds of Venus. They believe these are mountain tops.

By watching these bright spots move as Venus rotates, an astronomer has figured out that the Venusian day is about a week long.

Other astronomers are not certain these bright spots are mountain peaks. We may have to wait until telescopic space probes can solve this mystery.

If these mountains do exist they are as high, or higher, than the Himalayan mountains on earth. They would have to be to poke through the clouds.

The presence of such high mountains on Venus would prove that the clouds of that planet could not be continuous sand storms. This is because such violent and long sand storms would have sand blasted away such high features.

Unless enough oxygen is discovered on Venus before Earth's expedition is sent to that planet the party will have to carry its own oxygen to Venus.

If the surface of Venus is completely covered by either water, soft sands or something like oil then the landing rockets and buildings will have to be made to float on these seas. If some of the surface is solid land then buildings similar to those on earth could be built.

Goldie Locks and Those Crazy Bruins

One day as Goldie Locks was hopping through the forest on her pogo stick, she spied a quonset hut sitting in a small clearing.

Now Goldie wasn't hip that this was the home of the bear family, who had just left on a shopping spree, so she hopped to the hut and pounded gently on the door, causing the entire hut to rattle as if it had been caught in a tornado.

Deciding there was no one home she left her pogo stick next the door and entered the hut.

Inside she found three TV dinners defrosting on the breakfast bar. The dinners were still frozen solid, so she snooped in the refrigerator and found some weiners and buns and made herself some hot dogs. She also found some ice cream, which she gobbled down as she nosed around the rest of the house.

In the next room was a television with three chairs facing it. There was a big reclining rocker with "Pops" stamped on it, a chaise-lounge with "Mom" embroidered on it, and a springy chair built like a rocket labeled "Jr."

Nearby were three one-wheeled bikes; a big one, a medium sized one, and a little one.

The bears who lived here were known as "The Three Swingin' Bruins," a television variety show troupe. They used the one-wheeled bikes in their act, and worked out on the Trampoline.

Goldie was too curious for her own good, as she discovered when she tried to ride the two larger bikes and made a wreck of the house. She straightened the overturned tables and chairs, and hastily cleaned up the broken dishes by sweeping them under the rug. Then she tried riding the small bike, which was more her size.

She had a big time riding

Porridge! What's that? Goldie for once finds out that those bears are a lot different than we might think.

the small one-wheeler for a while; but Goldie, never satisfied doing one thing for long, tired of this and tried the Trampoline.

Now this is what I call fun, she thought gleefully, as she bounced up and down.

Little Miss Locks turned the television on full volume and sat in the springy rocker chair pretending she was headed for outer space. And that's exactly where she would have headed if the television hadn't drowned out the sound of the Bruin family's approaching hot rod.

A sudden thought struck Goldie, and, like lightning, she dashed for the Trampoline. She clambered onto the Trampoline and pulled the little bike up after, and you can probably guess what she did then.

Goldie was having a hilarious time riding the one-wheeler bouncily around the Trampoline, when suddenly the glare of the television stopped—and was replaced by menacing roars and growls!

Goldie was so surprised when she saw the three bears standing there she rode the bike right off the Trampoline, and landed in a twisted heap of wires and legs—right at the feet of Pops Bruin.

After a scolding from Pops Bruin, and sympathy from Mom Bruin, it was decided that she give Junior her pogo stick to replace his bike. Bruin Jr. had great fun jumping on the pogo stick, and when he used the pogo stick on the Trampoline he became the first flying bear.

Later, when Mrs. Locks looked out the door to see if Goldie was coming home, she fainted.

There was Goldie riding home on the handle bars of a huge one-wheel bike being pedaled by Pops Bruin, while Mom Bruin rode behind on her bike, and Jr. brought up the rear on the pogo stick.

New Paltz Citizens Group To Be Organized For School Study

The New Paltz Central School Board and the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce will cooperate in organizing a citizens committee May 3.

The group will study plans for better utilization of space in the local school system. The Chamber of Commerce will set up the first meeting and will act as the link between the Citizens' Committee and the Board of Education.

The League of Women Voters was given approval to aid in the forthcoming election of school board members. Members of the league will man the voting booths and assist in the registration.

At its meeting the board accepted the resignation of Miss Judith Martin, a third grade teacher, with regret. Positions have been offered to Mrs. William Schmalkuche Jr., to teach kindergarten and to Mrs. Edwin Cole to teach the third grade for the coming year.

Dr. William Hagney suggested that the board hire the Middle States Evaluation Group to study curriculum needs in the high school in the near future.

As the present board feels that it can function more efficiently with additional members, Frank Hamilton was instructed to write to Governor Rockefeller supporting the Wilson proposed bill for increasing members of the Cooperative Board of Services from five to seven.

Supervising Principal, Fred Dippel, reported that unauthorized groups have been using the athletic field for the playing of games. It was stressed that anyone wishing to use the field should get permission from the supervising principal first.

The board has scheduled May 16 as Teacher Recognition Day. It will be observed with a pot luck supper. Teacher's wives or husbands will be guests for the occasion.

Present at the meeting were board members Charles Van Aist, John Ashton Jr., Walter Dyer, Mrs. John Jacobson, Dr. William Hagney, as well as Fredrick Dippel and Frank Hamilton.

Guests included Mrs. Ruth Lanwick, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Muller, Henry Hopper, Robert Carvey, Michael Branco, Clyde Still, Carmen Liberta, John Arena, and Mrs. Julian Grandchamp.

VFW Officers Installed
Past Commander, Richard Fall, of the Brannen-Vanden Berg Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of New Paltz recently installed the following slate of new officers:

Commander, Robert Corey Sr.; vice commander, James Ashton; vice commander, Kenneth Duray; quartermaster, Robert McKenna; chaplain, John Fracasse; and post surgeon, Dr. Harri Janssen.

The new commander expressed the thanks of the entire post to outgoing commander, Tony Lucci. A large crowd witnessed the ceremony after which a roast beef dinner was served. Chef for the occasion was Robert DuBois.

Receives Fellowship
John E. Arena of New Paltz has been informed by the National Science Foundation that he has been awarded a summer fellowship in physical science.

This year the NSF awarded 47 of the fellowships to residents of the United States, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. The fellowship provides for graduate study and research in the field. The award pays all tuition and fees involved and provides a subsistence allowance of $960 for the eight-week period.

Mr. Arena will use this award to complete requirements for a master's degree in physics which he expects to receive in August of this year from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy.

He received congratulatory telegrams from Senator Jacob K. Javits, Representative Katherine St. George, and other dignitaries.

Community Chest
All citizens of both the village and town of New Paltz may attend an open meeting on a new community chest proposal.

The meeting will be held Thursday, April 27 at 8 p. m. at the firehouse.

The meeting is being arranged to allow an exchange of information and open discussion of a proposal made recently by several Ulster agencies that are now members of the Community Chest.

Under the proposal the Community Chest would assume the responsibility for conducting the fund raising campaign for these agencies in the New Paltz area.

Driver Charged After Mishap; Woman Injured

A 57-year-old city resident was charged with reckless driving Friday after a car he was driving was involved in a collision with another vehicle on Hasbrouck Avenue at East Chester Street.

Robert Boyle, of 168 Highland Avenue, today appeared before City Judge Aaron E. Klein and requested an adjournment to obtain counsel. The case was put over until Tuesday at 9 a. m. and Boyle was paroled in his own custody.

According to a police report, Boyle drove his 1956 car south on Hasbrouck Avenue and at East Chester Street made a left turn and his car was in collision with a 1953 vehicle operated by Ethel Levine, 43, of 32 Pine Street, who received an injury of her knee.

Patrolman James Amato investigated the mishap which occurred at 5:45 p. m.

Taxpayers Group Has 21 Associate Members to Date

The Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers' Association campaign to recruit associate members is meeting with steady success, it was announced at the monthly meeting in the Lake Hill fire house this week.

James McVitty, chairman of the associate membership committee, reported that 21 members have been signed. Ten were previously approved and 11 more were granted associate status at this week's meeting.

The possibility of establishing chapters around the township was also discussed at length and it was indicated efforts will be made to set up the first one in Woodstock village in the next 30 days.

Plans were announced for a cake sale. Association president, Lawrence G. Casey reported on the regular meeting of the Town Board this week describing it as a 25-minute session attended by nine taxpayers and three representatives of the press.

Scores Meetings
Casey told the taxpayers he felt disturbed over the frequency of special town board meetings at which the bulk of the town's business is being transacted. He said he could see no emergency attached to the recent special meetings and warned that the board might approve business that was undesirable at these meetings without taxpayers having an opportunity to express themselves. He said the meetings were being called on short notice and at odd hours making it impossible for residents to attend.

Casey also reported that he had made inquiry at the meeting if there was any cost connected with the installation of the temporary street signs. He was told there was, he said, but could not determine who had done the lettering on the street signs. Councilman John Pike, who served as temporary chairman of the Town Board meeting, could not identify the person.

Need Re-Survey Leading Up to 1st Class Mail

An announcement at a recent Town Board meeting in Woodstock that temporary street signs had been placed in the foot-carryer area and that first class mail delivery was "now a responsibility of the post office" does not jibe with a survey conducted by this column.

A check of the area two days after the Town Board pronouncement revealed that signs were missing at such points as Grand Union-Pine Grove Street, Mt. View Avenue and in three or four other locations.

The board's announcement that the installation of the temporary signs had been done by members of Superintendent Cashdollar's highway department personnel at no cost to the township was also challenged and it was revealed that there was a cost attached to the project.

Several days after the board meeting at which the temporary signs were announced, Postmaster Leon Carey was informed by Superintendent Cashdollar that the missing signs had been installed.

Postmaster Carey, who has consistently declined to be embroiled in the argument over responsibility, had no comment on the board's announcement. But he did take time out to clarify the situation.

The postmaster pointed out that, even if all the temporary signs were up in the foot-carryer area, first class mail delivery could not be instituted in Woodstock until all components of the service had been set up. This would include, of course, mounted carrier routes and the RFD routes.

Re-Survey Necessary
Carey said that since plans were started for the city delivery, the town has grown to such an extent that it is necessary to re-survey and re-align the routes. This work is now being done and as soon as it is completed and approved by the federal post office department, the service will be instituted.

Carey emphasized that there can be no piecemeal approach to first class delivery, it must start on all levels—foot carrier, mounted and RFD—simultaneously. He said that the Woodstock post office now services 40.15 miles of RFD routes which include some 825 stops.

The first survey was made three years ago, but because of the growth pattern a re-survey and re-alignment is necessary of the delivery routes in order to give the best service possible at least cost to the government.

The re-survey entails not only routing of the city carriers, but also the mounted which will absorb perhaps 300 stops on RFD which, Carey says, has been overloaded for five years. He also anticipates that RFD mail delivery will be speeded up by several hours.

As soon as the survey is completed and approved, all box holders and persons receiving mail will receive a list of explanations and instructions listing requirements that must be met by the patrons to insure proper delivery of mail.

Carey urged residents to check with the post office on any information they desire, not the town officials.

Information regarding house numbers is available at the town clerk's office. The postmaster again reminded residents that houses and boxes must be numbered before they can receive mail.

Student Council Day at Onteora Is Big Success

The Student Council of the Onteora Central School held its annual Student Day this week and it was pronounced a rousing success.

In carrying out the Student Day theme, the whole school was under the supervision of selected students for that one day. The duties and responsibilities of the different teachers and administrators were assigned to the students.

A Student Council committee headed by Ellen Artinian made suggestions as to the administrative posts to be filled by students. Elections were then held by the Council and students were assigned as follows:

Superintendent, Bennett, Edward Tick; Principal, Deming, Dominick Vanocore; Mr. Runge, Edward Krein; Mr. Goodrich, Louis Berryman; Mr. Vanni, Rolf Medall; Mr. Stahl, Jane Todd; Mrs. Osborne, Jill Peacock; Mrs. Koster, Pat Maier; Mr. Van Wagonen, John Gordon; Mr. Finigan, David Dean; Mrs. Baringer, Lynn Janick; Mr. de Bruyn, Jay Molyneux; Mrs. Gerson, Betty Jensen; Mr. Levine, John Gormley; Mr. Buley, Rick Kahil; Mrs. Lorenz, Diana Munch; Mrs. Chatfield, Pat Keator.

Before the big day, the students were thoroughly briefed by the department heads they represented in order to insure the success of the program. In the classrooms, student-teachers were determined by elections in their respective classes. Once chosen they prepared and presented their lessons to their fellow students, thus, in effect, becoming real teachers for the day.

The purpose of Student Day is manifold, Principal Deming said, giving the students involved a composite view of school operations. In addition, it gives them an idea of the responsibilities of the persons they are representing. Deming also stated that Student Day is valuable in that it is a sign of a good student-teacher relationship. In the classrooms many students get a first-hand look at teaching. And, of course, the reversal of sides had a certain element of fun attached to it.

Congregation to Meet At Christ Lutheran

A special meeting of the congregation of Christ's Lutheran Church in Woodstock will be held on Monday, May 8, at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of incorporating the church.

Pastor Norman C. Krapf has announced that the spring clothing drive was an outstanding success. The response of the congregation was excellent and two large cartons of clothing have been sent to the needy overseas.

Marlin Klinger of West Hurley, chairman of the Building Committee of Christ's Church, reported that the intensive study phase of the program is about ready to begin. Members of the church will play a large role in this study which will lead to a detailed definition of the congregation's program upon which building plans will be projected.

The resultant master plan of development will permit the construction of needed facilities within the limits of the congregation's resources.

Change in Methodist Sunday School Hours

Due to crowded Sunday school facilities at Woodstock Methodist Church, the Rev. James Cook, pastor, has announced that children 3-6 years old who are attending the kindergarten classes will meet at 11 o'clock, instead of 9:45 a. m., starting April 23 and continuing through May and June.

During July and August the regular summer schedule will be in effect, with all classes at 9:45.

The Rev. Mr. Cook joins the Education Commission in hoping that this revised kindergarten class time will permit parents of pre-schoolers to attend the church service while the children are in Sunday school.

The 73% is the highest game registered in the Hudson Valley association this year.

Second place went to Mrs. William Brinnier and I. H. Wheatcroft of Kingston with a 64% game. Third was won by Mrs. Layman Sabon of Hurley and Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft of Kingston with a 58% game. Fourth went to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Minasian of Kingston with a 53% game.

The next game of the duplicate club will be held at the Twaalfkill on May 3 at 7:30 p. m.

The slate was presented by Mrs. Charles Steele, chairman of the nominating committee, which also included Robert Moser and Mrs. Roy Helmsmoortel.

A recommendation was approved that the association would award four $100 scholarships again this year to the senior class, one of which will be given to a student entering the teaching profession, the other three to students entering a four-year college.

Main Street School choir entertained with musical selections after which the program of the evening "The School's Health Program" was presented by several teachers and students, with school nurses, Mrs. Elizabeth Boyce and Miss Audrey Grant, and the school physician, Dr. Richard Wenger participating.

The skit depicted a "Day in the Life of a School Nurse" and included the checking of children with absentee excuses, caring for the sick or injured during the school day, assisting the school physician with the annual school health check-ups, conferences with parents on the findings of these physicals, and conferring with teachers and others on behavior problems that stem from physical handicaps.

The program showed the scope of the school's health program and the many people who work together to promote good health among the pupils.

Freshmen were served in the cafeteria after the program. The next P-TA meeting will be held at the high school May 17.

Business Week in Review

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy's tax program stirred up controversy in business and financial circles the last week. The President told Congress his aim was to modernize business and create 500,000 jobs. A lot of business men didn't see it that way.

Kennedy proposed, among other things, a special tax incentive for business to modernize and expand plants, withholding taxes on dividends and interest, and repeal of special tax treatment given dividends.

Some for Increase
Some business men expressed a preference for an increase in their depreciation allowance as a means of spurring the rate of plant expansion.

Kennedy contended that while the tax incentive plan would cut tax revenues by $1.7 billion a year, the higher depreciation allowance would cost $3.4 billion.

He said his proposal would bring about a big increase in employment in such industries as construction, lumber, steel, cement and machinery.

The proposals on dividends and interest seemed sure to draw widespread opposition from the nation's 15 million stockowners and others who draw interest on bonds, mortgages and savings.

The President wants to repeal the exclusion from income of the first $50 of dividends and the four per cent tax credit on dividends. He said a proposed 20 per cent tax would bring in $450 million annually.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, contended this would be double taxation on the full amount of dividend and interest income because corporations pay tax on the money they pay out in dividends.

See Stiffer Penalty
"The administration's proposals to levy an even stiffer penalty on millions of investors, already harassed by a dividend tax that is patently unjust, moves exactly in the wrong direction," he said.

"Economic growth is not going to be stimulated by taking money out of the pockets of millions of taxpayers—particularly those in the lower income brackets—and the administration's proposals would do just that."

Also on the Washington scene, the Senate passed Kennedy's bill raising the $1 hourly minimum wage to $1.25 by 1963 and extending coverage to an additional 4,086,000 workers, and the House passed his legislation allowing men to retire at 62 and otherwise broadening the Social Security system.

Anxiety Over Cuba
Business was apprehensive about the deteriorating Cuban situation and its international implications. This anxiety was felt on the stock market and the long advance was interrupted.

However, there was no dimming of the burgeoning optimism about the business outlook.

Corporation reports of poor first quarter earnings were laced with expressions of conviction that better times are not too far ahead. U.S. Rubber Co. declared "the worst of the recession is over." American Cyanamid Co. forecast a gradual improvement in business. John Harrison, economist for the Tri-Continental Corp., the nation's largest closed-end investment company, declared "the recession is apparently ended."

Steel Output Gains
The steel industry, most important beacon in the economic seas, flashed what some saw as a go-ahead signal.

Production rose last week for the fifth straight week to a 10-month high of more than 60 per cent of capacity.

The trade publication, Iron Age, found "real buoyancy" in demand for steel for the first time since the upturn began.

Plants fired up more furnaces and put more men to work. Automobile production hit the highest level of the year with every one of the industry's 49 plants building cars. It was the first week this year that all had operated simultaneously. Output of 126,137 passenger cars was scheduled, compared with 114,110 the prior week. Car sales in the first one-third of April picked up, totaling 128,900, a 2½ per cent gain over the early March rate.

Bond volume on the New York Stock Exchange increased to $37,445,000 par value during the week from $33,757,000 the previous week.

Weekly volume on the stock market declined to 24,716,960 shares from 25,670,470 the prior week.

Briefly Around
Briefly around the business scene: Burlap dresses, skirts, coats and shorts are a new style fad. . . . Chas. Pfizer & Co. says it will be ready to market 50 million doses of oral polio vaccine Oct. 1. . . . The nation's savings and loan associations' deposits increased $670 million in March to $63.9 billion. . . . New Paltz Citizens Group To Be Organized For School Study

The New Paltz Central School Board and the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce will cooperate in organizing a citizens committee May 3.

The group will study plans for better utilization of space in the local school system. The Chamber of Commerce will set up the first meeting and will act as the link between the Citizens' Committee and the Board of Education.

The League of Women Voters was given approval to aid in the forthcoming election of school board members. Members of the league will man the voting booths and assist in the registration.

At its meeting the board accepted the resignation of Miss Judith Martin, a third grade teacher, with regret. Positions have been offered to Mrs. William Schmalkube Jr. to teach kindergarten and to Mrs. Edwin Cole to teach the third grade for the coming year.

Dr. William Hagney suggested that the board hire the Middle States Evaluation Group to study curriculum needs in the high school in the near future.

The present board feels that it can function more efficiently with additional members. Frank Hamilton was instructed to write to Governor Rockefeller supporting the Wilson proposed bill for increasing members of the Cooperative Board of Services from five to seven.

Supervising Principal, Fred Dippel, reported that unauthorized groups have been using the athletic field for the playing of games. It was stressed that anyone wishing to use the field should get permission from the supervising principal first.

The board has scheduled May 16 as Teacher Recognition Day. It will be observed with a pot luck supper. Teacher's wives or husbands will be guests for the occasion.

Present at the meeting were board members Charles Van Alst, John Ashton Jr., Walter Dyer, Mrs. John Jacobson, Dr. William Hagney, as well as Fredrick Dippel and Frank Hamilton.

Guests included Mrs. Ruth Lanwick, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Muller, Henry Hopper, Robert Carvey, Michael Branco, Clyde Still, Carmen Liberta, John Arena, and Mrs. Julian Grandchamp.

VFW Officers Installed
Past Commander, Richard Fall, of the Hannen-Vanden Berg Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of New Paltz recently installed the following slate of new officers:

The new commander expressed the thanks of the entire post to outgoing commander, Tony Lucci. A large crowd witnessed the ceremony after which a roast beef dinner was served. Chef for the occasion was Robert DuBois.

Receives Fellowship
John E. Arena of New Paltz has been informed by the National Science Foundation that he has been awarded a summer fellowship in physical science.

This year the NSF awarded 47 of the fellowships to residents of the United States, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. The fellowship provides for graduate study and research in the field. The award pays all tuition and fees involved and provides a subsistence allowance of $960 for the eight-week period.

Mr. Arena will use this award to complete requirements for a master's degree in physics which he expects to receive in August of this year from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy.

He received congratulatory telegrams from Senator Jacob K. Javits, Representative Katherine St. George, and other dignitaries.

Community Chest
All citizens of both the village and town of New Paltz may attend an open meeting on a new community chest proposal. The meeting will be held Thursday, April 27 at 8 p. m. at the firehouse.

The meeting is being arranged to allow an exchange of information and open discussion of a proposal made recently by several Ulster agencies that are now members of the Community Chest.

Under the proposal the Community Chest would assume the responsibility for conducting the fund raising campaign for these agencies in the New Paltz area.

Taxpayers Group Has 21 Associate Members to Date

The Willow, Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers' Association campaign to recruit associate members is meeting with steady success. It was announced at the monthly meeting in the Lake Hill fire house this week.

James McVitty, chairman of the associate membership committee, reported that 21 members have been signed. Ten were previously approved and 11 more were granted associate status at this week's meeting.

The possibility of establishing chapters around the township was also discussed at length and it was indicated efforts will be made to set up the first one in Woodstock village in the next 30 days.

Plans were announced for a cake sale. Association president, Lawrence G. Casey reported on the regular meeting of the Town Board this week, describing it as a 25-minute session attended by nine taxpayers and three representatives of the press.

Scores Meetings
Casey told the taxpayers he felt disturbed over the frequency of special town board meetings at which the bulk of the town's business is being transacted. He said he could see no emergency attached to the recent special meetings and warned that the board might approve business that was undesirable at these meetings without taxpayers having an opportunity to express themselves. He said the meetings were being called on short notice and at odd hours making it impossible for taxpayers to attend.

Casey also reported that he had made inquiry at the meeting if there was any cost connected with the installation of the temporary street signs. He was told there was, he said, but could not determine who had done the lettering on the street signs. Councilman John Pike, who served as temporary chairman of the Town Board meeting, could not identify the person, Casey reported.

A meeting of the association's board of directors has been scheduled for Thursday, April 27, at 8 p. m.

Business Week in Review

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy's tax program stirred up controversy in business and financial circles the last week. The President told Congress his aim was to modernize business and create 500,000 jobs. A lot of business men didn't see it that way.

Kennedy proposed, among other things, a special tax incentive for business to modernize and expand plants, withholding taxes on dividends and interest, and repeal of special tax treatment given dividends.

Some for Increase
Some business men expressed a preference for an increase in their depreciation allowance as a means of spurring the rate of plant expansion.

Kennedy contended that while the tax incentive plan would cut tax revenues by $1.7 billion a year, the higher depreciation allowance would cost $3.4 billion.

He said his proposal would bring about a big increase in employment in such industries as construction, lumber, steel, cement and machinery.

The proposals on dividends and interest seemed sure to draw widespread opposition from the nation's 15 million stockowners and others who draw interest on bonds, mortgages and savings.

The President wants to repeal the exclusion from income of the first $50 of dividends and the four per cent tax credit on dividends. He said a proposed 20 per cent tax would bring in $450 million annually.

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, contended this would be double taxation on the full amount of dividend and interest income because corporations pay tax on the money they pay out in dividends.

See Stiffer Penalty
The administration's proposals to levy an even stiffer penalty on millions of investors, already harassed by a dividend tax that is patently unjust, moves exactly in the wrong direction," he said.

"Economic growth is not going to be stimulated by taking money out of the pockets of millions of taxpayers—particularly those in the lower income brackets—and the administration's proposals would do just that."

Also on the Washington scene, the Senate passed Kennedy's bill raising the $1 hourly minimum wage to $1.25 by 1963 and extending coverage to an additional 4,086,000 workers, and the House passed his legislation allowing men to retire at 62 and otherwise broadening the Social Security system.

Anxiety Over Cuba
Business was apprehensive about the deteriorating Cuban situation and its international implications. This anxiety was felt on the stock market and the long advance was interrupted.

However, there was no dimming of the burgeoning optimism about the business outlook.

Corporation reports of poor first quarter earnings were laced with expressions of conviction that better times are not too far ahead. U.S. Rubber Co. declared "the worst of the recession is over." American Cyanamid Co. forecast a gradual improvement in business. John Harrison, economist for the Tri-Continental Corp., the nation's largest closed-end investment company, declared "the recession is apparently ended."

Steel Output Gains

The steel industry, most important beacon in the economic seas, flashed what some saw as a go-ahead signal.

Production rose last week for the fifth straight week to a 10-month high of more than 60 per cent of capacity.

The trade publication, Iron Age, found "real buoyancy" in demand for steel for the first time since the upturn began.

Plants fired up more furnaces and put more men to work. Automobile production hit the highest level of the year with every one of the industry's 49 plants building cars. It was the first week this year that all had operated simultaneously. Output of 126,137 passenger cars was scheduled, compared with 114,110 the prior week. Car sales in the first one-third of April picked up, totaling 128,900, a 2 1/2 per cent gain over the early March rate.

Bond volume on the New York Stock Exchange increased to $37,445,000 par value during the week from $33,757,000 the previous week.

Weekly volume on the stock market declined to 24,716,960 shares from 25,670,470 the prior week.

Briefly Around

Briefly around the business scene: Burlap dresses, skirts, coats and shorts are a new style fad. Chas. Pfizer & Co. says it will be ready to market 30 million doses of oral polio vaccine Oct. 1. The nation's savings and loan associations' deposits increased $670 million in March to $63.9 billion. American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s annual meeting in Chicago attracted a record 18,420 stockholders.
